Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Warranty
Q. I bought a new car with a five-year warranty from a Chrysler dealer who has since gone out of business. What provisions are made for honoring the remaining coverage in such a case? B. S., Los Alamitos.
A. Any authorized Chrysler dealer can handle items, covered under the factory warranty, said a spokesman for Chrysler public relations in Los Angeles. She said you need only to explain that your original dealer went out of business and there should be no problem.

Chairman
Q. On June 29 we made a $171.98 deposit on a Ther-massage Roller Chair at the Home Show, the balance to be paid C.O.D. We were told to allow 45 days for it to be made to our specifications. We still have no chair, and our contacts with the distributor, Oxford Furniture Co. in Los Angeles, have been fruitless. Can ACTION LINE help? O. D. H., Long Beach.
A. ACTION LINE spoke with Bob Boyle, manager of Oxford Furniture Co., who apologized for the delay and explained that the company has been having problems with their electrical component supplier. "But everything's straightened out now, and the chairs should go out in a couple of weeks," Boyle said. He added that they have a backlog of more than 400 chairs to deliver. A check with the Better Business Bureau revealed that several complaints of slow delivery have been filed against the company, formerly known as the Oxford Furniture Distributing Co., located on Osage Boulevard in Los Angeles. The BBB spokesman noted that only a few of the complaints were rectified.

Checks on Lex
Q. Where was the aircraft carrier Lexington sunk? Didn't our own forces sink it? A. R., Long Beach.
A. The USS Lexington — the "Lady Lex" — was destroyed May 8, 1942 in the South Pacific's Coral Sea by Japanese torpedos. The torpedo hits touched off fires and explosions that grew in intensity until the 42,000 ton vessel had to be abandoned. All the crewmen were saved and taken aboard the battleship USS Minneapolis and the destroyers Morris, Anderson and Hammann. The blazing hulk, still afloat hours later and a menace to navigation, was sent to the bottom by one final torpedo from the destroyer USS Phelps.

Home Run
Q. I am an interior decorating student, and understand that some community organizations sponsor house and garden tours. Are there any such tours in Long Beach or neighboring communities? C. W., Long Beach.
A. Long Beach groups which sponsored such tours in previous years have discontinued them due to lack of interest, according to several woman's club representatives contacted by ACTION LINE. However, the Lido Isle Women's Club in Newport Beach will offer a tour of six Lido Isle homes in April. For details of the tour, you can write to Mrs. Melvin Richley Jr., club president, at 701 Via Lido Sound, Newport Beach, Calif. 92660. The Woman's Fellowship at the Neighborhood Church, 415 Pasco del Mar, Palos Verdes Estates, also sponsors an annual Yule Parlor Parade Dec. 5 and 6. Ticket price of $2.75 includes a tour of four peninsula homes plus refreshments and entertainment at the church.

Myna Key
Q. Can myna birds be mated in captivity? Will a myna bird learn to talk sooner in the company of another bird? Mrs. A. D., Los Alamitos.
A. Although myna birds breed well in a large aviary, it is highly unlikely you will be able to make them in a birdcage, said Frank Todd, curator of birds for the Los Angeles Zoo. Mynas in captivity need an environment that duplicates their natural one in order to breed successfully, he said. He also pointed out that it is hard to tell a myna's sex, making it difficult to buy birds for breeding. "We call it a female only after it lays an egg," he said. Like other birds who mimic human speech, mynas learn to "talk" better if alone. Todd said he feels other birds distract the talking bird from learning to mimic.

ARMY BREAKS SILENCE IN CASE Beret Captain Singled Out as Killer

SAIGON, Saturday AP — The U.S. Army singled out Green Beret Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J., today and said it was he who fired the pistol that killed an alleged Vietnamese double agent. The killing resulted in murder charges against six Green Beret officers.
The Army broke a relatively strict silence on the case and released the charges and specifications against the six officers despite defense objections, which were overruled Friday.

The charge sheets accused Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., former commander of the 3,000 Green Berets in Vietnam, of premeditated murder, although they said he did not participate in the actual slaying.
The Army charged that Rheault, in the June 15-20 period conspired with seven other Green Berets in the slaying of Thai Khac Chuyen.
The specifications said Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, of Duncan, Okla., obtained a boat to carry the victim from the 5th Special Forces headquarters at Nha Trang and "did administer an injection of morphine to Thai Khac Chuyen to render the said Thai Khac Chuyen unconscious."
"Capt. Robert F. Marasco, a coconspirator herein, did request Capt. Robert A. Wolf to obtain a heavy chain to be used in disposing of Thai Khac Chuyen, and the said Capt. F. Marasco did shoot Thai Khac Chuyen with a pistol," the specification said.
It gave no further identification of Wolf, but military defense attorneys identified him as a supply officer. He has not been charged in the case.
There also were no charge sheets or specifications listed for CWO Edward M. Boyle of New York City and Sgt. 1C Alvin L. Smith Jr. of Naples, Fla.

Specifications against the other Green Berets said, however, that "in order to effect the object of the conspiracy," Brumley and Boyle carried Thai Khac Chuyen from the 5th Special Forces headquarters building.
The Army announced Sept. 18 it had directed trial by general court-martial on the charges of murder and conspiracy to commit murder against Rheault; Maj. David E. Crew, 33, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, of Jefferson, S.C.; Brumley; Marasco, and Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, of Athens, Ga.

Nixon: Back Me on War Prison Riot Leaves 1 Dead, 46 Wounded

President Insists
Student Dissent
Won't Change Plans
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon asked the public Friday to give him the support and the time he feels he needs to end the war in Vietnam on an honorable basis.

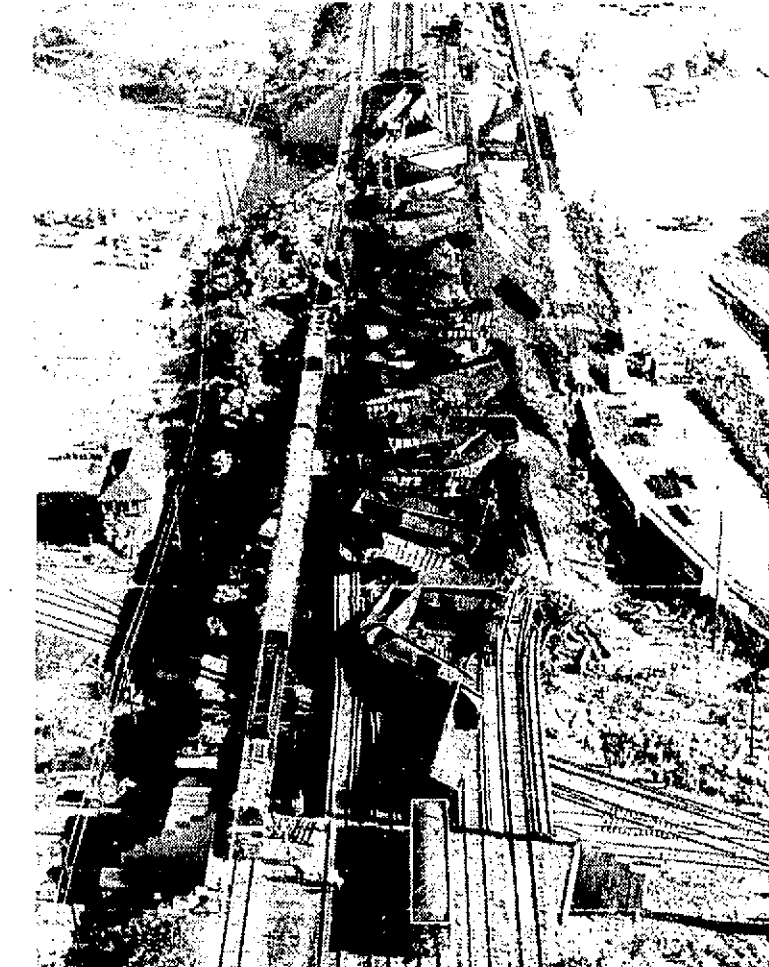

At his first news conference since June 19, the President also set forth publicly what had been generally acknowledged but only privately discussed by his advisers: that the essence of his plan to force Hanoi into serious bargaining is to build up the strength of the Vietnamese while demonstrating his capacity to hold American public opinion.

Crucial to that plan, he suggested, is public tolerance. The enemy, he declared, would acquire the "incentive to negotiate" only if it is persuaded that the country is united behind the "reasonable" peace proposals that he has offered.

YET EVEN AS he called for unity and patience, his critics on Capitol Hill provided fresh evidence of disunity and impatience. Led by Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, 24 liberal Democrats met and agreed to support the student anti-war protest scheduled for Oct. 15—a demonstration specifically designed to prod the Administration to move faster toward withdrawal than Nixon intends.

Nixon was asked repeatedly about the war and its critics. A single theme ran through his answers: the Administration's efforts to force the enemy into serious bargaining will be shattered if Hanoi concludes that American public opinion can force the Administration to undertake a new round of unilateral concessions.

Although he maintained his composure throughout the questioning, addressing each query crisply and evenly, his words suggested impatience with his (Continued Page A-4, Col. 1)

Inmates Felled by Shotguns

PENDLETON, Ind. (UPI) — One inmate was shot to death and 46 others wounded Friday when security guards opened fire on rioting prisoners in a recreation yard of the Indiana State Reformatory.

State Correction Commissioner Robert P. Heyne said the riot had racial overtones.

Five of the wounded were reported in serious condition. Fifteen were hospitalized, nine at Robert Long Hospital in Indianapolis and six at St. John's Hospital in Anderson. The others were treated and released.

THERE WAS disagreement over the number of shotgun blasts fired. The blasts left blood splattered over a basketball court in the recreation enclosure. David Waggoner, news secretary to Indiana Gov. Edgar Whitcomb, said only 10 shots were fired.

"They shot them down like dogs," one Negro prisoner shouted to newsmen who walked through the reformatory.

"Ricochet hell," another prisoner said. "Ask us about it." The inmate was referring to a statement by Heyne that the prisoner killed died when a bullet ricocheted off a building.

THE DEAD prisoner was identified as James E. Durr, 20. Durr, a Negro from Gary, Ind., was serving a 10-year robbery sentence.

Heyne said the confrontation, which followed demonstrations Thursday, apparently stemmed from refusal of penal officials to meet demands for black militant literature, release of four blacks held in detention, and more Negro counselors.

Judge Orders Chicago Trial Attorneys Held

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge Friday found four defense attorneys in contempt of court for failing to appear at the Chicago convention riot trial and jailed two of them without bond pending a hearing Monday.
U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman issued the orders in a tumultuous session when attorneys Michael A. Tigar, San Francisco, and Gerald Lefcourt, New York, raised their hands over their heads in clenched fist salute.

A guard at the Cook County Jail where the men were supposed to be held said late Friday the attorneys were not jailed.

Abbie Hoffman, one of the defendants, said the two were released on personal recognizance bonds and were on their way to New York to plan their defense.

Their apparent release came shortly after U.S. District Court Judge Albert C. Wollenberg in San Francisco, threw out warrants for the arrest of attorneys Michael Kennedy of San Francisco and Dennis Roberts of Oakland issued here by Hoffman. Wollenberg said the warrants were not valid.

Aerial Spray to Sterilize All World's Women Urged

DURHAM, N.H. AP — A University of New Hampshire professor Friday recommended sterilizing all women by means of an airborne virus to control the world's population.

Dr. Richard W. Schreiber, a botany professor, made the recommendation at a two-day population symposium at the university.

He said that man was "fatally close to breeding himself out of existence" and that what had to be done "has to be done now and done thoroughly."

He said virologists had told him that a virus to accomplish the sterilization, and (Continued Page A-4, Col. 3) an antidote for it, could be developed in three years. He estimated the development cost at $5 million.

Dr. Schreiber also conceded that no government would dare do it.

He said that because of the antidote, which would be administered by injection, "nothing is actually changed," and persons could have as many children as desired.

Married couples "now have to work not to have children," Dr. Schreiber said. His system would reverse this so that persons "would have to make a human decision" to have children.

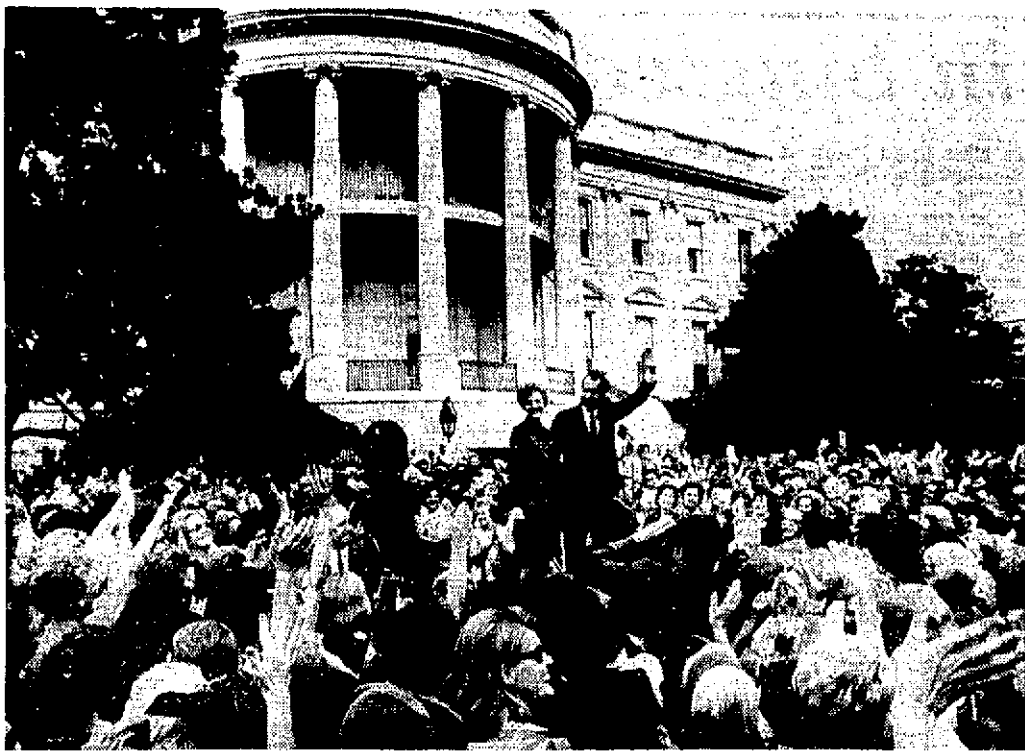

Most college students are realistic—they feel that being broke is something to write home about.

Allies Kill 105 Cong in Jungles Near Saigon

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — Allied troops intercepted five large groups of Viet Cong prowling the jungles around Saigon Friday and killed 105 of them in separate battles. American infantrymen and paratroopers fought three of the battles within 33 miles of the capital, supported by jet fighter-bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery. They killed 72 Viet Cong and lost three dead and 10 wounded. Two of those killed and four of the wounded were from the 82nd Airborne Division's 3rd Brigade, which is to be withdrawn from Vietnam by Dec. 15. The fighting around Saigon was the only significant ground action of the day in South Vietnam.

225 Aircraft Lost Over Laos

SAIGON — More than 225 U.S. aircraft have been lost over Laos in the past 11 months, U.S. sources said Friday. The sources also reported that U.S. air attacks in support of Laotian government forces increased considerably over the past three weeks. The stepped-up air strikes have bolstered a twin-pronged offensive launched by the Laotian government earlier this month against the Communists in northeast and central Laos. Because of political considerations, the U.S. does not announce its air strikes in Laos or the aircraft losses although the raids have been going on since 1964.

Terrorism 'Disservice to Arabs' — Hassan

RABAT, Morocco — King Hassan II of Morocco denounced anti-Israeli terrorism as "disservice to the Arab and Moslem cause" Friday but pledged support to Palestine liberation guerrilla movements. Following the conclusion of the 25-nation Islamic summit conference, the king said the meeting had convinced world Moslem leaders they should back the Palestine liberation cause according to their means. But he criticized those "who hijack aircraft, those who bomb embassies, those who declare at the U. N. and elsewhere that they will hunt the last Jew from the land of Israel."

Dubcek, Other Reformers to Be Purged

PRAGUE — Alexander Dubcek, the leader of Czechoslovakia's short-lived liberalization program, will be dropped from the Communist Party's ruling presidium and 11 other reformers will be purged from the party Central Committee, diplomatic sources said Friday night. The actions were decided by a meeting of the Central Committee which Dubcek addressed Friday in an apparent attempt to justify his leadership and save himself and his former lieutenants from political oblivion.

Bolivian Airliner Missing Over Andes

LA PAZ, Bolivia — A Bolivian airlines DC8B airliner with 69 persons aboard disappeared in the Andes mountains Friday on a domestic flight from Santa Cruz to La Paz. Among the passengers were several newsmen returning to this capital after having accompanied President Luis Siles on an official visit to Santa Cruz earlier in the week. The Bolivian armed forces overthrew Siles Friday morning.

GEN. ALFREDO OVANDO

Bolivia Government Overthrown

LA PAZ, Bolivia—The Bolivian military overthrew the constitutional government of President Luis Siles Friday in a bloodless coup and named Gen. Alfredo Ovando, commander of the armed forces, as president. The whereabouts of Siles was not officially known. Reports that he had flown to exile in Chile were denied by Chilean officials. Bolivian radio stations said unofficially he was under house arrest. Ovando's first official act was to invalidate the country's 14-year-old petroleum laws under which U.S. and other oil firms operate in Bolivia. He said a new petroleum law would be made public by Monday. He also promised a new labor law lifting restrictions on the right to strike and bargain collectively without government interference. The military coup was carried out swiftly, efficiently and, apparently, bloodlessly. No resistance was reported nor were there any reports of casualties. Business activities were suspended in La Paz but the country was reported clam and appeared to have taken the coup in stride. Ovando was sworn into office five hours after his troops seized the government palace, the house of congress and the city hall. In his first pronouncement Ovando proclaimed a government of "leftist-nationalist" political orientation but said he hoped to enjoy the best of relations with the U.S., principal source of Bolivian economic aid.

Nixon Praises Haynsworth

Combined News Services

President Nixon reaffirmed his belief in Judge Clement Haynsworth's "qualifications and integrity" Friday and predicted he would become "a great credit to the Supreme Court." Atty. Gen. John Mitchell agreed and said criticism would have been just as strong "if we'd put up one of the 12 apostles" for the Supreme Court seat that Abe Fortas left under pressure.

Nixon told his news conference he expected Haynsworth to win Senate confirmation and become the ninth member of the Supreme Court "I hope in the fall term," which starts Oct. 7.

The Senate Judiciary Committee closed its hearings about the time the President was speaking. It has heard eight days of testimony, most of it critical of the Greenville, S.C., jurist. Civil rights and labor leaders said his rulings proved him biased against their causes.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., told Haynsworth he ignored the "appearance" of judicial purity, if not the ethical canons themselves, in failing to disqualify himself from two cases. Senate Judiciary Chairman James Eastland, D-Mass., said he would seek a committee vote on the nomination soon.

Spy Intrigue Rocks Neutral Switzerland

Neutral Switzerland was confronted Friday with the biggest espionage case in its history. A Swiss jet engine expert was arrested and accused of selling to Israel, for $200,000, the information needed to maintain the Israeli Mirage fighter fleet hit by a French embargo.

ALFRED

After a five-day secret probe, Federal Prosecutor Hans Walder announced the arrest of Alfred Fraenknecht, 43, a minor executive in the Swiss company that makes Mirage jet engines for the Swiss air force under a French license. He said Fraenknecht has made a statement admitting that more than 20 crates of vital Mirage blueprints were shipped to Israel via West Germany in the past 12 months. The prosecutor quoted Fraenknecht as telling interrogators he acted "out of sympathy for the state of Israel" but added that this version seemed in contrast to the huge amount of money paid out by Israeli agents.

Student Strike Called After Sit-In Broken Up

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Student-protesters called Friday for a general student-faculty strike Monday in the wake of arrests of 103 persons evicted from a University building early Friday. Nine were injured in eviction fracas. No major damage occurred at the Literature, Science and Arts Building in the 12-hour sit-in. The university radio station, however, reported $800 worth of equipment missing. Police said they could identify immediately only 43 of those arrested as University of Michigan students. They included the president and vice president of the Student Government Council. The issue was whether a proposed campus bookstore will be operated under student control. University Regents have voted to establish one under administration control. Students say they fear it wouldn't give discounts. The strike was proposed at a noon, mid-campus rally which attracted some 4,000.

Panther Kills Self After Assault

LACOLLE, Que. — An alleged Black Panther from New York City shot and wounded three U.S. customs officers as he was being questioned at the border Friday and then fled into a clump of woods where he killed himself. Jesus Mark White, 22, of Brooklyn, ran out of the customs house after the shooting and hid from a massive search party led by bloodhounds in a pine grove less than a quarter mile from the border crossing. At daylight Friday, White's body was found in woods with a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head.

Buick Recalls 39,856 Opel Kadetts

FLINT, Mich. — Buick Motor Division of General Motors Corp. announced Friday it is asking the owners of 39,856 Opel Kadetts built in November, 1968, and April, 1969, to return them to dealers for correction of the seat back adjusting mechanism.

FBI Hunts Wisconsin Bomber

MILWAUKEE — The FBI assigned more than 20 agents Friday to investigate two powerful blasts that damaged the Federal Building in downtown Milwaukee and an armory in Madison earlier in the day. The first explosion occurred on a stairwell landing between the first and second floor of the five-story Federal Building. It caused damage estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000. An hour and a half later, a similar explosion rocked the National Guard armory at Madison, Wisconsin's capital.

American Exports Soar

WASHINGTON — American exports bounded to a record in August, sending the nation's favorable balance of trade soaring to its highest level since March, the Commerce Department reported Friday. The department said exports totaled $204.9 million more than imports, the second largest balance of 1969.

U.S. Plane Crash in Biafra Reported

NEW YORK — A spokesman for Joint Church Aid-USA said Friday night it had received a report that a C-97G Stratofreighter had crashed in Uti airport, Biafra, killing four American and one British crewmen.

NUDES DISTURB

Charles and Virgie Mae Fox complain that strolling nudes in the Garden of Eden are ruining their Sunday dinners. "They're objectionable and unsightly," Virgie told the Pasco County (Fla.) Commission Tuesday. "You should do something about them."

But Robert Sumner, county attorney, said the commission was powerless to act against Kenneth Ellis, the Foxes' next-door neighbor who operates the seven-acre camp. The Foxes live just north of Hudson in the western end of this sparsely settled Florida Gulf Coast county. Last May, Ellis moved next door and established the Garden of Eden camp.

"I've been seated at my dining room table and seen them out the window, walking around nude," said Fox.

But Ellis, a well-tanned man in his late 40s, insists his 10-foot sheet metal fence keeps his camp well hidden. "If they saw anything they've got to be peeking through my fence," he said.

BURLEY SUSPECT

Investigators charged a burly, blond ex-convict with murder Friday in the violent death of Mexican jail escaper Dykes Askew Simmons.

Paul Wayne Howell, 34, was charged in the slaying several hours after he appeared with his attorney at Fort Worth police headquarters. His lawyer said he was innocent. A federal prison parolee, Howell is the man police allege fought with Simmons shortly before his battered body was found slumped in a parked car.

FCC PUSH

Nicholas Johnson, a Federal Communications Commission member, said Friday he will push for regulations requiring the television networks to devote one-third of their prime viewing hours to public service programming.

Johnson said he believes network affiliated stations "would be better serving the public if for one third of their time they would put on in prime time something other than the lowest common denominator of entertainment fare."

Ex-City Official Sues L.A. for $3.85 Million

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Two firms headed by former city Human Relations Commissioner Keith Smith sued the city of Los Angeles Friday for $3.85 million, for breach of contract.

San Sebastian Development Co. and the Trade Center Development Corp. charged in the Superior Court complaint that Los Angeles had breached its contract with them to build a $12-million World Trade Center on Terminal Island.

THE FORMER commissioner lost his job when indicted by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury for bribery and perjury. He was also fired from the commission, and is awaiting trial.

San Sebastian and Trade Center Development say they were prevented from fulfilling terms of the 50-year World Trade Center lease with the city because of the 1967 indictment of former Los Angeles Harbor Commissioners George D. Watson, Robert (Nick) Starr and the late Karl L. Rundberg, a former Los Angeles city councilman.

The trio subsequently was convicted of bribery and conflict of interest.

Smith, 42, was indicted at the same time.

In early 1968, the city declared the lease had been defaulted because the firms failed to fulfill terms of the agreement.

The suit contends a contractual clause protected the organizations from obtaining title insurance on land which was to have been used for the trade center, and that the companies were unable to obtain financing for the project.

IN ADDITION, the suit charges the city forbade the firms by contract from obtaining default payments due to intervening forces.

They filed a suit seeking identical damages last February. The city at that time denied the claims, thus prompting Friday's court action.

On April 3 the city's Board of Harbor Commissioners refused to recognize the suit.

Smith claimed then—as now—that the city had violated its contract to lease

23 acres for the Terminal Island facility.

Under terms of the lease, Smith was to have built the trade center, which would have served as headquarters for the Los Angeles Harbor Department.

Reason for the commission decision to refuse to recognize the initial claim was based on the legal opinion of Deputy City Attorney Walter C. Foster, who said at the time the claim had not been presented to the city within the period required by the California Government Code.

FOSTER HAD said the lease became effective Sept. 8, 1967, but that Smith charged him with of until Feb. 24 of this year, terming Smith's action "not timely to the city."

Indictment against Smith charged his with offering two bribes to the former (and deceased) Harbor Commission President Pietro Di Carlo, whose body was found floating near a San Pedro boathouse shortly after the district attorney's office took the matter before the grand jury.

DiCarlo's death was ruled an accident.

Smith also is accused of offering two bribes to Rundberg and Starr, and of offering a bribe involving a bank stock deal to Watson, who later appealed his conviction.

MRS. CASE SITS ON THE LOT WHERE HER HOUSE SHOULD HAVE BEEN BUILT

Man Pleads Innocent of Shootings

An aircraft company employee accused of shooting his supervisor and two union officials after getting a reprimand for failing to wear safety glasses pleaded innocent Friday to murder charges.

Isaac C. Jernigan, Jr., 29, entered the plea before Los Angeles Superior Court Judge William B. Keene, who scheduled trial for Nov. 25.

He is accused of shooting template shop supervisor Jan H. Domonoske.

LOT OF HASSLE ABOUT A HOUSE

The deed to her property didn't bear a "don't tear, spindle or fold" warning, but the "snafu" surrounding construction of Mrs. Alice Case's Capistrano Beach house rivals mistakes reported by customers of modern "supercomputers."

Mrs. Case's house was built on the wrong lot.

The 66-year-old widow, who lives in rented quarters at Capistrano Beach, can't move into her house because of a legal hassle that's existed for about a year.

"You can hardly believe it: a contractor building a house on the wrong lot," said Mrs. Case. "I sounds hilarious."

Funny or not, neither Mrs. Case, the builder, the subcontractor nor the woman who owns the lot is laughing.

The legal dispute, which began when the mistake was discovered, involves the question of who should be paid for the work and who's entitled to collect damages.

Fruit Fly Invades El Monte

The Oriental fruit fly—dangerous to 100 crops—has invaded the El Monte area near Los Angeles, the state Agriculture Department reported Friday.

"Please do not give away, sell or take in a bunch to be eaten in another area any fresh fruit grown in El Monte, until further notice," said Robert W. Harper, a top agriculture official.

The fruit fly attacks important crops such as apples, grapefruit, oranges, peaches and tomatoes, agriculture officials said.

Swindler Suspect Hunted

A Laguna Beach man charged with swindling $137,000 from an elderly Los Angeles widow was sought by authorities Friday following issuance of a district attorney's complaint.

Named in the complaint, issued in Los Angeles, was Curtis Wayne Lint, 40.

Mrs. Bertie Mae Frederick, 66, named as the victim, told district attorney's investigators she became suspicious upon receiving checks signed by Lint, who was charged with selling her a nonexistent bond and a worthless annuity policy.

The checks should have been issued by an insurance company, officials said.

Mrs. Frederick asked Lint to prepare the policy to safeguard her two older sisters in case anything happened to her, the complaint charged.

The woman said she gave Lint almost $97,000 last April and received the worthless policy in return. The complaint also accuses Lint of selling her a nonexistent $45,000 bond for $40,000.

County Pay Hike in Expropriation

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

Homeowners whose property is purchased by the county — for one reason or another — may soon be eligible for an extra $5,000 over what they were paid.

And moving expenses may be thrown in.

Even if only a renter, there may be assistance, and businessmen may also qualify.

Until now the county paid these costs only if a highway was being built and some of the money was coming from the federal government. Federal law required that.

BUT SOON everybody bumped by any county project, if it imposes severe problems on him, can look for several types of relief. The protection is offered through a new law, A.B. 1191, now part of the state Government Code.

All that's needed is an ordinance to make it effective in Los Angeles County. And the Board of Supervisors has issued instructions to County Counsel John Maharg to get to work on that.

Chief Administrative Officer Lindon Hollinger, in recommending the action, pointed out the supervisors went on record for it Aug. 19.

"THE BOARD," he noted, "adopted a policy of rendering all assistance authorized by law to provide persons, families and businesses forced to relocate because of acquisition of property by the county."

Several top county officials met to look into the new law and see what it said. Maharg and Arthur Will, director of real estate management, were among them.

Hollinger's report states two new things can be done now for ousted people: They can get advice, if they need it, and they can submit bills, and expect payment, for "moving expenses and relocation costs."

IT'S THE relocation costs that cover payment up to $5,000 so the dispossessed can get decent housing.

"It would something like this," a county official explained. "Let's say we condemn a house and it's worth only $10,000. It wasn't much good to start with, but the family that loses it can't get anything else fit for human habitation for less than $15,000."

"Under those circumstances, the county pays the difference."

What the ordinance will contain is rules. It will tell who can get help, and when, and how he can go about getting it. It will also give much of the responsibility for doing these things to the Department of Real Estate Management.

What is different in the new law, attorneys said, is paying for moving expenses and relocation costs for all kinds of county projects.

WHERE IS THE SUN? Foggy Southland Befuddles Experts

Associated Press

What's with the Southern California weather? Usually it's sunny along the coast in September, with a couple of hot days even.

But lately it's been nothing but fog.

AIRPORT blinding fog; freeway snarling fog; sneezing, coughing and sputtering fog.

Weatherman Frank Ernst says it has to do with a strong marine temperature inversion and consistent low pressure on the desert.

That means, he says, that air from the ocean is flowing over the city toward the desert.

Usually, it's the other way around, at least some of the time, he says.

How come the inversion and low pressure? "I don't know exactly," Ernst says.

MOST OF the deserts and mountains are clear, anyway, he says. All you have to do is head for the hills.

But the coast, well, "it's very unusual," he says, "and it does not appear it's going to change by the end of the month."

Pope Paul Faces Possible Split in His Church

By United Press
Pope Paul VI must decide soon whether he will permit a little more democracy in the Roman Catholic Church or try to crush a rising demand or it by forcefully reasserting papal authority.

If he chooses the latter course, as seems likely, the church may be torn by the greatest schism since the Protestant Reformation.

The issue could come to a head at the synod of bishops which convenes in Rome Oct. 11. One hundred fifty-six bishops, representing national hierarchies in all parts of the world, will take part in the closed meeting at the Vatican.

THE SYNOD of bishops is an outgrowth of the Vatican Council and is supposed to give concrete expression to the council's most important achievement — the so-called "doctrine of collegiality" which asserts the co-responsibility of Pope and bishops in government of the church.

So far, co-responsibility remains largely a paper doctrine. Pope Paul has shown no disposition to share authority with the bishops to any important degree. On the contrary, he seems bent on curbing any independent tendencies among the various national conferences of bishops.

This intention is reflected in the official agenda for the Rome synod, which was prepared by the Vatican. It proposes that national hierarchies be required to obtain clearance from Rome "before publishing any declaration on a grave matter."

The censorship proposal was prompted by the Pope's displeasure with some of the statements issued by national hierarchies "interpreting" his birth control Encyclical. In several countries of Western Europe, hierarchy statements had the effect of toning down the Pope's stand and suggesting that devout Catholics could in good conscience decide to practice birth control.

ANOTHER item on the official agenda suggests that the proper role of national conferences of bishops is not to advise or criticize the Pope but to help sell his decisions to the faithful.

To many of the bishops who will assemble in Rome next month, this kind of talk indicates that the bureaucrats of the Roman curia have succeeded, as many predicted they would, in scuttling the Vatican Council's calling for greater democracy and decentralization of authority in the church.

Instead of merely accepting this reversal of the council's intentions, these bishops will call on the Pope to begin giving real substance to the corresponding doctrine.

They will ask specifically that in the future the Pope consult in advance with the synod of bishops or the various national conferences of bishops before making important decisions — such as the one on birth control — which affect the whole church.

This "request" — it would not be good ecclesiastical manners to call it a demand — has been endorsed by 23 national and regional conferences of bishops, including the U.S. hierarchy.

There also is strong sentiment among the bishops for having the synod meet regularly every two years (instead of unpredictably, at the call of the Pope) and allowing it to fix its own agenda (instead of accepting one prepared by the Vatican).

Statements emanating from the Vatican recently have been persuaded by his curia advisers that these proposals are a part of a sinister plot to subvert the authority of the papacy.

Thus the stage is set for a sharp collision between bishops who are determined to implement the reforming spirit of the Vatican council and a Pope who is determined to protect the prerogatives of his office against what he regards as dangerous currents of change.

It is the old business of irresistible force meeting unmovable object, and you don't have to be a congenial pessimist to see in it the portents of tragedy.

Shirley's Job With U.N. Fits Previous Pattern

By MAX HARRISON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The appointment of Shirley Temple Black as a representative to the U.N. General Assembly fits the pattern of including some women diplomats in each U.S. delegation. The entertainment world has contributed its share. So have business, labor, education, journalism, medicine and the two houses of Congress.

Harry S. Truman, when he was president, appointed actress Helen Gahagan Douglas a delegate to the 1946 session of the assembly. Other delegates from the arts include motion picture star Irene Dunne and Metropolitan Opera contralto Marian Anderson.

While most of the major issues are handled by the professional diplomats, the nonprofessionals get special assignments—usually on economic and social problems or secondary political issues.

Submariner Recounts Gulf Stream Exploits

LA JOLIA (UPI) — Dr. Jacques Piccard, a world renowned oceanographer, Friday described the findings made by him and his crew while drifting down the Gulf Stream in the research submarine, "Ben Franklin."

The six man crew of the research submarine, with Piccard as scientist-in-charge, left in mid-July from Florida on their unique 1,500 mile submerged voyage in the Gulf Stream.

The vessel was allowed to drift, completely without power, during the voyage so as not to disturb surrounding sea life and so as not to disrupt experiments that were being

SHIRLEY TEMPLE BLACK
In Good Company

One of the best remembered is the late Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, who played a key role in early Andrei Vishinsky.

Former Sen. William Knowland of California created a brief tempest some years ago by calling Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon a floor manager for Red China. Menon said Knowland ought to see a head doctor.

Marian Anderson is the only nonprofessional who let it be known publicly that she did not share the views she expressed as a delegate. This happened in 1958 when she was sitting in the assembly's trusteeship committee.

Some African delegates criticized her opposition to a special assembly session on Cameroon. Apparently nettled by the criticism, she said: "There is no one in this room who is more interested in the people whose fate we are trying to determine than I. Like many of the representatives, I am a member of an instructed delegation, and we are here to carry out what is wanted; otherwise we would not be here."

Mrs. Douglas played only a small role at the United Nations, but four years later she was a candidate for the U.S. Senate in California and her successful opponent was Richard M. Nixon.

Women delegates over the years have included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mrs. Anna Lord Strauss, Mrs. Marietta Tree, Mrs. Jane Warner Dick, Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, Mrs. Gladys Avery Tilleit and Mrs. Jane Picker.

Among the nonprofessional diplomats on the male side were Henry Ford II; Robert S. Benjamin, head of United Artists; Dr. Charles W. Mayo; George M. Harrison, vice president of the American Federation of Labor-CIO; Louis Stulberg, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union; Publisher Charles Sprague, and Jacob Blaustein, president of American Oil Co.

Each 10-member delegation has either two senators or, in alternate years, two members of the House of Representatives. These have included Sens. Sparkman, Humphrey, Long, Mansfield, Morse, Aiken, Gore, Case, Church, Eaton, Bloom and Fulbright. The delegations normally serve from mid-September to late December.

POPE PAUL VI ON 72ND BIRTHDAY
More Democracy or Rift in His Church?

'Pope Season' Ends at Castel Gandolfo

By DAVID MAZZARELLA

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul's vacation is over and Castel Gandolfo faces another long winter of oblivion.

The "Castellani" waved goodbye this week to the Pope as his limousine wound down the steep cobblestone streets toward the Appian Way at the foot of the Alban Hills. He drove 18 miles across the verdant Roman plain and returned to the Vatican after his annual two months escape from the heat of Rome.

Until next summer the town had lost its chief guest, benefactor and tourist attraction.

There was a sigh from Fiora Manupelli, who runs a souvenir shop a few paces from the gate of the austere 17th century papal palace.

"The darkness falls," said a stout, red-haired man who sells "genuine wine" at the other end of the Piazza della Libertà.

For two heady months or so every year, fame comes to this town of 5,000 overlooking emerald Lake Albano. Its name is flashed around the world as the Pope makes pronouncements and receives statesmen, princes and huge throngs of free-spending tourists.

An occasional bus will come still, carrying foreign tourists to photograph the Pope's "summer house." Romans will continue to bring the family up to get the "good air," sip the wine and eat a sandwich of roast pork — as long as the weather holds.

Then the darkness really falls.

Black Ex-Exile Seeks 'Selfless Society' in U.S.

By THOMAS A. JOHNSON
1969 N.Y. Times Service

DETROIT — An eight-year exile did not rid the black revolutionary Robert F. Williams of the conviction that armed self-defense was at times the Negro's best politics, but Williams said it did convince him that today's America "represented the best chance ever" for "social changes and racial justice."

A "selfless society," Williams said, was the necessary vehicle for bringing about these changes and he added that he was committed to such a society.

THE RACIAL youth and college disorders, and assassinations of political and civil rights figures, "while tragic," had brought the nation to the point where it was ripe for change, he contended.

Touching a motto in Chinese characters "serve the people" — pinned above the breast pocket of his gray Mao jacket, Williams said he would work to apply in the nation's black ghettos the lessons of discipline, commitment and "true militancy" that he learned in China.

Williams was interviewed in his moderate but comfortable home in an integrated Detroit suburb. His wife, Mabel, an attractive and well-spoken former nursery director in North Carolina, sat quietly on the floor beside him.

Some supporters of the racially separatist Republic of New Africa, of which Williams was voted president in absentia, also sat quietly and listened.

Williams' importance and role in the black revolution is at this time still a matter of speculation now that he has returned. Although he brings a new theme, couched in appeals to "intellect and effectiveness," his credentials as a gun-toting militant are unassailable. With several nationally known, left-leaning black militants either in jail or out of the country, Williams will naturally attract attention as head of a separatist organization with black nationalist ties across the nation.

In addition, he was welcomed in China, where "Chou En lai told me the night I left that I always had a home here," a nation that most black nationalists admire.

Williams was flown to Detroit from London 24 hours before and after an arrest on a fugitive warrant from North Carolina he was released by federal officials on $1,000 bail and released by Wayne County officials on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond. He is to appear in county court on Nov. 10 on an extradition hearing.

Talking about why he chose this time to come back to the U.S., Williams said: "people are saying it's a hopeless situation (in America) but it is not a hopeless situation. We've got the best situation we ever had. Why? Because there is so much unrest and discontentment. It is not bad but good, the mere fact that they're discontented means they are dissatisfied and that's the first step toward a social change."

He said the primary need today was showing people "what needs to be done and how this (racial problem) can be solved."

Beside the lesson of "selflessness" or striving toward a "collective society," Williams said also that he would hope to try to "instill pride in our people" and "clean up the ghettos ourselves."

The Williams family odyssey began in August, 1961, when Williams fled charges of kidnapping a white couple in Monroe, N.C. It took the Williamses to Canada, Cuba, China and Tanzania.

A QUESTION OF ETHICS

Dr. Barnard Came Close to Cancer 'Mercy Killing'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Christian Barnard, the South African surgeon who performed the world's first heart transplant once nearly committed a mercy killing on a cancer patient who later rallied and lived for several years.

"She was going to die and kept crying please do something," Barnard said in an excerpt from his autobiography in the current issue of McCall's magazine. "To turn away from this was to stand without mercy before her readiness to die. She wanted it now, not later."

BARNARD, an intern at the time of the incident, said he walked over to the sleeping woman with a hypodermic needle and "took the arm and pinched it to plunge in the needle, once more looking at her face. And then I saw her not in life, but in death — dead at my own hands. . . . I let go of the arm and lowered the needle."

Barnard said he realized in a "flash" that he was "violating not only the laws of social man but also my own personal ethic."

The woman began to rally the next day, he said, and left the hospital six weeks later. "I watched her go, wondering how I had come so close to committing a tragedy."

In recalling his early years as a medical student and intern in Cape Town, Barnard also admitted he almost fainted when he watched his first operation.

"At the sight of blood pulsating from the open wound, I became nauseated," he said. "There was a chair in the corner and I staggered to it, sitting there with my head spinning, dimly aware that I was about to faint."

His reaction to the first autopsy he ever saw was similar, Barnard said, and he was afflicted with "a great despair of mind and spirit."

THE SURGEON said, however, "gradually I came to see that what I had was not an isolated fear of death itself. My anguish and rage . . . stemmed from premature death by disease or error, the loss of life before it has run its span. Death was to be feared and treated as an enemy."

Barnard's first heart transplant patient died shortly after the operation but his second patient, Cape Town dentist Philip Blaiberg, lived nearly 18 months after the transplant.

DONALD DUCK

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Your security in this coming year of widespread changes consists of being alert and active on the crest of the now-breaking wave of progress. Get busy and learn the newest ideas in your space-age specialty. Romantic interest thrives all the more for the turmoil of change. To day's natives are all inclined to work hard for their wages.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take full advantage of this day to relax. Catch up on sleep. You now deserve an interval of rest.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Use the quiet of Sunday to check on your health. Ponder over any symptoms. Resolve on a definite course of coping with them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make a slow and uncomplicated day of it now, doing as little as you can manage. Let nature turn busy somewhat from the things you have been through lately.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take your share in the community expression of faith. Go on a regular round to meet all your familiar friends. Give yourself plenty of time to meditate along the way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Suddenly you are needed to fill an emergency role. Do your best but get somebody who is more often in that line, or used to the circumstances, to take up so you can leave off.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Leave your notebooks at home, take a trip to beaches and just relax, whether you swim or not. You can feel your optimism building up as you realize how well you have come through the situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An image forms in your mind today and leads to the knowledge of where you are going. Once you get past fear of the future, it falls into place.

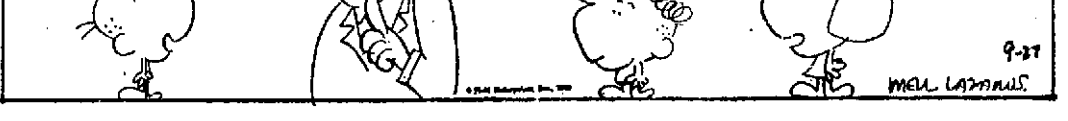

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now that it's a quiet Sunday, find time to catch up with relations with your loved ones. Write to anybody in your family who is not near. Take more time to rest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): After doing your share of the community rituals of Sunday, get out and enjoy new acquaintances, renew old friendships; but do both at low-key levels.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Involvement in pleasant diversions which take you away from the last few days of business tension. If you can get out of town, seek a rural place.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Despite it's being Sunday, minor matters can be worked out almost businesslike. The temptation is to think about important contracts.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The pressure eases off more. Stay cheerful and full of fun as things go back to normal. Give everybody the chance to start with a fresh clean slate.

TIGHT SQUEEZE — BUT DRIVER 'BARGES' IN

Some traffic backed up—and more gaped—as this huge barge headed through Long Beach Friday, en route to its new home, the Pacific Ocean. The craft entered town on 223rd Street, went east to Wardlow Road at Pacific, south to Pacific Coast Highway, west to Santa Fe, south to Ninth Street and then into the harbor. The vessel had completed her land voyage by shortly after noon.

State Hits 'Not a Bigot' Sports College on Funds Director Testifies

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sacramento State College endowment funds were handled so ineptly that "normal auditing procedures" were of little use, state officials said Friday.

The State Finance Department's audit division issued a three-part report Friday on non-state foundation funds at the college under the administration of former President Robert Johns.

State auditors also advised that a contract for food consulting services, signed by Johns, "and all supporting information be turned over to the state attorney general for his review and opinion."

Johns resigned abruptly last spring. After he left, the Legislature's auditor general, William Merrifield, reported alleged mis-handling of foundation funds under Johns' administration.

The Merrifield report said the endowment foundation, designed to support research and similar programs, bought a house for Johns at a cost of $64,902.

Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke of the college system, under fire from some trustees, later reported his office had been checking on Johns' administration for some time.

The colleges' executive vice chancellor, Harry Brakebill, said Friday in Los Angeles that "we have substantially reduced the possibilities of such operations — as criticized in the report — occurring again."

He said this was because of new Board of Trustees policies and "establishment of an internal management audit section."

The audit said the Sacramento State College Foundation had most of its reserve funds depleted under Johns' administration — from $105,004 on June 30, 1966, to $12,780 on June 30, 1969. The years correspond to Johns' tenure at the college.

Auditors recommended that "the president's house be sold and the proceeds be redirected to research and educational projects."

They also said the foundation's former executive director, Harry Shoup, "claimed substantial expenses without supplying adequate information on vouchers."

Truck Rams Car, 1 Killed

DAVIS (AP) — Miss Marion Susan Motts, 20, from Fillmore in Ventura County, was killed early Friday in an auto-truck crash, the California Highway Patrol reports.

The CHP said Miss Motts, a student at the University of California in Davis, was apparently alone in her car when she drove through a stop sign and was struck by a truck on Highway 113.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Fernando Valley State College athletic director, who says he was called a "pig" by several Black Student Union members, denied in court Friday that he is a bigot.

"I am not," replied Dr. Glenn W. Arnett, under cross-examination by Halvor Miller Jr., an attorney for 24 students. All but two are BSU members, charged with conspiracy, kidnapping and false arrest stemming from the takeover last Nov. 4 of two campus buildings.

"As athletic director, did you ever personally practice discrimination against black athletes?" demanded Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi.

"I have not. I have not," Arnett replied.

"Did you ever institute any policy in your department advocating discrimination against black athletes?"

"I have not," Bugliosi asked whether he thought a coach acted improperly last Oct. 17 when he purportedly kneed a player off the field during a football game.

"It was improper from the standpoint we would not advocate this," Arnett said.

But he noted that the player, who reportedly ran onto the field without permission while officials conferred about a penalty, never lodged a complaint.

ARNETT SAID he reprimanded the coach about the kneeling, but didn't tell the player.

At the time of the takeover, BSU members told newsmen the action was to demand the firing of a football coach, establishment of a Black Studies program, and recruitment of more Negro faculty and students.

Another witness, Prof. Stanley Charnofsky, testified about a heated exchange Nov. 4 that took place prior to the takeover of the two campus buildings. He said it was between Dr. Arnett and defendant Archie Chatman, the BSU chapter president.

Dr. Charnofsky, now on sabbatical leave, at the time was director of the college's Educational Opportunities Program set up for students who could not ordinarily enter college because of financial or scholastic problems.

THE DISCUSSION between Arnett and Chatman was held in a conference room in the physical education building, Dr. Charnofsky said.

The witness said the meeting began with Arnett asking rather tersely, "Alright then, you asked for the meeting — what do you want to talk about?"

Chatman was quoted as replying, "I want to talk about the freshman football coach, who is a racist, and must be fired. We are asking you to fire him."

Charnofsky testified Arnett, again replying in terse tones, said: "Out of the question. What else would you like to talk about?"

CHATMAN, according to the professor, denied that it was out of the question.

Charnofsky told the court Arnett later told Chatman that "Hiring and firing of faculty members are not made by students. We make those decisions."

Arnett was further quoted as saying, "I have already talked to the coach in question and reprimanded him and have told him if it happens again, he will be dismissed."

Hike Prof Load at U.C.: Reagan

CORONADO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday urged increased teaching loads, cheaper buildings and fewer lobbyists at state universities to help solve the fiscal problems of higher education.

"Students should be given the highest priority and not the lowest," Reagan told the 800 delegates to the state convention of the California Savings and Loan League.

"Rather than converting budgets into dollars per student and quickly announcing limitations on admissions, the education fiscal experts should look elsewhere for possible cuts," he said.

Reagan's remarks were aimed at the University of California and not the state college system. He noted State College Chancellor Glen Dumke recently promised to cooperate on economizing.

He said education costs have risen 40 per cent in three years. He recently told college and university administrators to submit budgets for next year 20 per cent lower than what they receive this year.

One of Reagan's suggestions was for faculty members to teach an extra hour each day.

"If faculty members would teach an additional hour a day," he said, "we could afford 7,000 more students."

He suggested constructing more modest campus buildings with the emphasis on "a little more utilitarian appearance and a little less luxury." He said food tastes just as good in a cafeteria with 10-foot ceilings as it does in one with 30-foot ceilings.

A review of public relations expenses should be made, he said, to determine how much money goes for legitimate public information and how much is spent on questionable lobbying-type activities.

Reagan said the same cost-cutting procedures would apply throughout state government "with department heads individually competing with a budgeted item of tax relief for inclusion in the final budget."

UCLA's Red Prof. Will Teach Lunar Lump on Display at Berkeley

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Angela Davis, 25-year-old Negro Communist, will teach "Recurring Philosophical Themes in Black Literature" at UCLA next quarter pending appeal of her dismissal by the University of California regents, officials said Friday.

Miss Davis was dismissed last week on the ground that university policy forbids hiring a Communist.

But the firing does not become effective until after UCLA's academic senate committee on privilege and tenure has a chance to make its recommendations to the regents on Miss Davis' appeal.

A HEARING on Miss Davis' appeal has yet to be scheduled by the faculty group.

Prof. Donald Kalish, chairman of the philosophy department, said he granted Miss Davis' request to begin teaching in the fall quarter — instead of the winter quarter as planned — in allow another professor to begin work on a Ford Foundation grant.

He said the "switch does not inconvenience anybody else and does not unbalance the department."

"Her request is a normal one," Kalish said, "and I would have been completely out of line to deny it."

BERKELEY (AP) — Information leaked in a 2½-ounce chunk of the moon could have an enormous impact on man's view of himself, Dr. Melvin Calvin said Friday as the lunar lump went on public display at the University of California.

"If you look on the value of the moon voyage only in terms of this piece of rock, then it is a small return," the Nobel laureate chemist said. "But the information this rock may produce can have an enormous impact on man's view of himself — and you can't put a price on that."

After a one-week display at the Lawrence Hall of Science, Calvin will cut the rock into five parts for tests to see if there was ever living material on the moon.

The rock and an additional three ounces of moon dust, Calvin said, will be tested to determine their carbon content and the molecular structure of that carbon.

A complex, orderly carbon structure could be an indication of once living material, Calvin explained, although he was not optimistic about such startling findings.

Scientists to Drive on Steam Engine

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Some scientists talk about things but can't actually do them. Not Profs. Rodney Burton and Stanley Miller. After talking about air pollution, they built a steam engine.

Their two-cylinder engine capable of pushing a car along a freeway at 85 miles an hour was unveiled Friday at the University of California at San Diego.

A UNIVERSITY spokesman said it can deliver up to 100 horse-power at 3,500 revolutions a minute.

Dr. Burton, an assistant professor of engineering physics, and Dr. Miller, an associate professor of chemistry and a recognized authority on the origin of life on earth, were helped by 11 students specializing in fields ranging from chemistry to medicine.

Smog experts say the rapid high-pressure burning of internal combustion engines produce a large amount of hydrocarbons and nitrous oxides that turn out black smoke and contribute substantially to smog.

THE STEAM engine, on the other hand, needs only a little diesel fuel to heat the steam system. Salomone said, The water is heated in a boiler, expands in the engine to drive pistons, is turned back into water in a condenser and then fed back into the water tank to be reheated.

"All the engine needs is steam," he said.

The engine still has to be hooked up with boiler and control systems. Sometime late this year, the UC scientists say, it will be mounted on the chassis of a U.S.-built compact car and road tested.

STEAM CLEAN

THE ULTIMATE IN WALL-TO-WALL CARPET CLEANING

STEAM PLUS CLEANING AGENTS IS SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER CLEANING METHODS

CARPETS ARE NOT ONLY CLEAN BUT SANITARY CLEAN AND SOIL RETARDANT

STEAM CLEAN FEATURES DEEP CLEAN EXTRACTION

STEAM CLEAN actually extracts (by wet-steam action) deep-down dirt and soil to the fibre base. No residue is left to damage the carpet like other cleaning methods.

GENTLE — RESTORES PILE

No brushes or scrubbing are involved, as there can be no pile distortion. Carpet fibre is restored to like-new resilience.

MOISTURE CONTROL — SAFE PROCESS

The STEAM CLEAN system controls wet-steam solution... as soil and dirt are extracted, excess moisture is immediately removed. STEAM CLEAN'S moisture control allows carpets to dry faster than any other process.

STAYS CLEAN LONGER

STEAM CLEAN cleans to fibre base, not just the carpet surface. Carpets that get cleaner... stay clean longer than ever before and, STEAM CLEAN is the only way to get carpets really clean.

'X' Rated Films Foul Out in Ads

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The Reno Evening Gazette and Nevada State Journal will refuse advertising for "X" rated movies or those which are unrated starting Oct. 1, Richard J. Schuster, Publisher, said Friday.

Films rated "X" by the Motion Picture Association of America, and to those not given a rating, are closed to persons under 18.

"IT IS NOT our intention to play the role of public censor, nor do we consider ourselves qualified to do so," Schuster said. "We are qualified, however, to determine what is acceptable to us for advertising and promotion."

Friday's Gazette carried two advertisements for movies that will not be acceptable under the new policy. "I Am Curious (Yellow)" and "Midnight Cowboy."

The Gazette and Journal, both Spideel newspapers, are the only daily newspapers published in Reno.

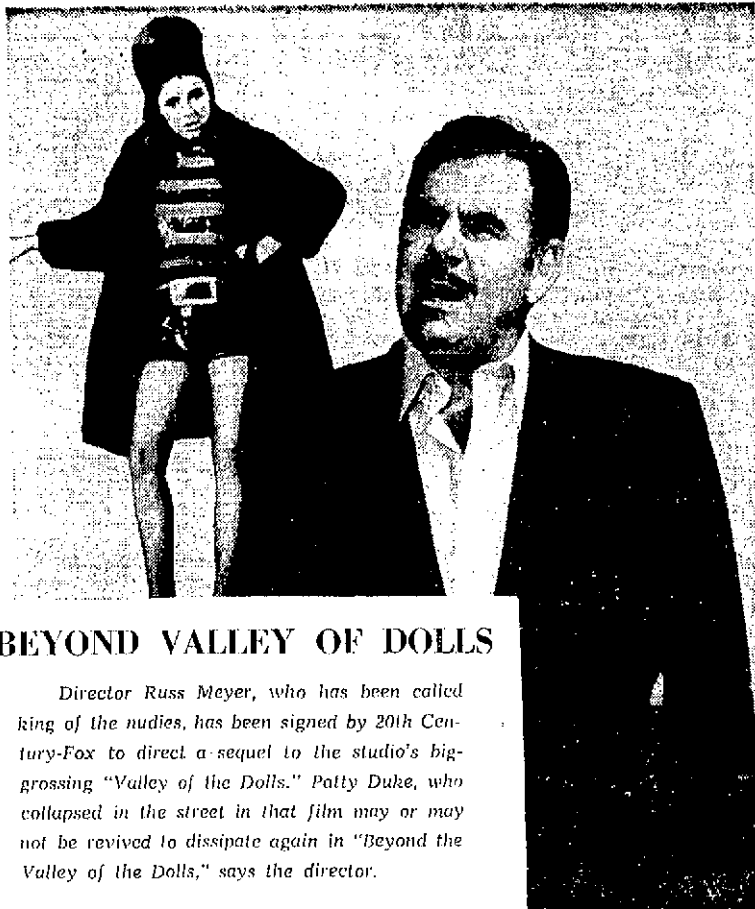

'CALCUTTA' AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

Casting auditions for the Los Angeles production of "Oh! Calcutta!" are slated to begin Tuesday. The musical is scheduled to open Nov. 25 at the Fairfax Theater.

Interviews will be conducted at 6840 Hollywood Blvd. (next door to Lowe's theater) with interviews for Equity female singers and actresses to be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday; for Equity male singers and actors at 3:30 p.m. the same day, and for non-Equity male singers and actors at 5 p.m.

NEXT Wednesday, interviews will be held for non-Equity female singers and actresses, and for Equity male dancers, both at 2 p.m.; for non-Equity male dancers at 3:30 p.m.; for Equity female dancers at 4 p.m. and non-Equity female dancers at 4:30 p.m.

Lou Shaw will present "Oh! Calcutta!" in Los Angeles, with the Fairfax movie theater being converted to a legitimate theater for the engagement.

BEYOND VALLEY OF DOLLS

Director Russ Meyer, who has been called king of the nudies, has been signed by 20th Century-Fox to direct a sequel to the studio's big-grossing "Valley of the Dolls." Patty Duke, who collapsed in the street in that film may or may not be revived to dissipate again in "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls," says the director.

'King Leer' Steps Beyond The Vixens—and Valley

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eyebrows shot skyward when 20th Century-Fox recently announced that Russ Meyer had been signed to direct the sequel to the studio's big-grossing "Valley of the Dolls."

What was so shocking about that? Only that Russ Meyer has been called "King of the Nudies" and "King Leer." He's the man who contributed to the literature of the screen such epics as "The Immoral Mr. Teas," "Eve and the Handyman," "Erotica," "Wild Gals of the Naked West," "Europe in the Raw," "Faster Pussycat, Kill, Kill," "Finders Keepers, Lovers Weepers," etc.

MEYER'S ascendancy to the studio which produced "Sound of Music" provides testimony on today's film market. The line between underground and above-ground films is fast fading. Yesterday's nudie or sexploitation movie is now playing prestigious theaters.

In truth, some of the country's film critics have placed Meyer's work many cuts above the usual sex films. His craftsmanship apparently had something to do with his being hired to direct "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls," not to mention his talent as a money-maker.

Meyer figures that his latest release, "The Vixens," cost $73,000 and may gross $6 million.

"It was on the basis of 'The Vixens' that Richard Zanuck hired me, he liked it," said the stocky, mustachioed director. "He presented me a resume of the studio's properties, and I chose 'Beyond the Valley of the Dolls.' It seemed to me it presented a good basis for a teen-age soap opera."

"BEYOND" was originally a screen treatment prepared by Jacqueline Susann, whose husband Irving Mansfield was to produce it. Fox was obviously interested in another go-around, since the original film grossed $20 million. But the Mansfields vanished from the project, as did her treatment. Meyer is working on a totally new story with Roger Ebert, film critic on leave from the Chicago Sun-Times.

"The previous film didn't leave us many characters to deal with," said Meyers. "Two of the three leading women appeared to be killed off, though Patty Duke only collapsed on the street."

For the most part he intends to use unknowns in the film and plans to spend a million dollars, plus studio overhead of $300,000. That's a small budget for a major motion picture, but stratospheric for Meyer. Of his previous 18 pictures, the most expensive was $90,000.

DOES HE PLAN to return to the nudies?

"I don't think so," he replied. "On the last one I realized how tiring they could be — 14-hour days out in the hot desert, sharing a house and one toilet with the cast and crew. Besides, I think I've done everything I can in the field. If I went to a better kind of production, the jump would be from $90,000 to $750,000. There's nothing in between."

Meyer also betrayed a disillusionment with the way the sex films are going. Not on moral grounds—he's anticensorship in all things, and has the legal bills to prove it.

"What distresses me is not the sexual content of these new pictures, but the lack of professionalism," he commented. "They're thrown together with no finesse whatsoever."

Yacht Owner Found Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Leo Cone, 54, a former commodore of the Golden Gate Yacht Club, was discovered dead Friday in the main cabin of his 40-foot power cruiser Edyle, moored in the yacht harbor. He was a marine mechanic.

Beside his body were found empty bottles that had contained sleeping pills, the coroner's office reported. The death was listed an apparent suicide. Cone's body was found by his wife Edith.

Dirty Book to End All Dirty Books -- A Gwen Davis Special

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It would appear that female novelists have cornered the market on pornography, or at least clinically oriented stories dealing with sex.

Latest authoress to emerge from the stacks of prurient literature is Gwen Davis, who has had five previous books published.

By way of explaining some far-out sex adventures in her book, Miss Davis (who is married and a mother of two youngsters) says, "I'm fed up with the nonbook by the nonwriter for the nonreader."

"I decided to write the dirty book to end all dirty books," she said.

MISS DAVIS could not be described as a shrinking violet. She is a shrewd female who seldom speaks without thinking and who rarely thinks unprofitably.

Her decision to write the ultimate dirty novel is not altogether altruistic.

She hopes it will make a great deal of money.

She flares up a bit when compared with other feminine novelists.

"Don't put me in their class," she cried. "I'm an established writer. A college graduate. I have a masters degree from Stanford."

She added a few gratuitous observations of her others.

"I took me a year and a half to write this book," Miss Davis said. "Sometimes I worked 12 and 14 hours a day pounding it out. And some of what I wrote is offensive. I admit it."

"But then the character I'm writing about is offensive," Miss Davis was asked why she used so many four-letter words in her literary exercise. Again, she was offended.

"Why do you have to ask that?" she demanded. SHE WAS queried if the book was larded with less than polite language to increase sales. Her answer was evasive:

"The fact that I can't stand to listen to those words doesn't mean I can't write them."

One of Miss Davis' previous works was an original screenplay, "What a Way to Go," which went right down the drain artistically and at the box office.

Miss Davis expressed no desire to spare moviegoers a film version of her novel. She did say, in fact, "I hope it isn't made into something like 'I Am Curious Purple.'"

Even as her latest book is climbing the best seller lists, Miss Davis is busily pecking out her sixth book, one she identifies as a simple love story.

In defense of her current novel she said, "There is not one gratuitous sex scene. Only one scene in the whole book could be called really shocking. But it is written as comedy erotica like Boccaccio and Baudelaire."

Miss Davis clearly sees herself in the same company with the two authors mentioned. History may not record things the same way.

The title of her tome: "The Pretenders."

PARENT AND TEENAGER

Addicts Need Help, Not Pity or Abuse

This is the twenty-first of a series excerpted from "Between Parent and Teenager," by Dr. Haim G. Ginott. Copyright by Dr. Haim G. Ginott.

By Dr. Haim G. Ginott

It is estimated that there are over 100,000 heroin addicts in the United States. The majority of them are young people from low income groups. A heroin novice usually begins by "taking a snort" (sniffing the drug), advances to "skin popping" (injection under the skin), and graduates to "main lining" (injecting into the veins).

The need for heroin increases daily, until even a few hours' abstinence may bring on cramps, vomiting, and sweating. These withdrawal symptoms can be relieved only by taking more heroin. Opiaes arouse intense cravings. An addict becomes a prisoner of his own chemistry. His existence hinges on obtaining drugs. All other sources of satisfaction are neglected or given up: friends, family, food, and sex. To regain the craved sensation, he may even risk his life. Drug addiction is an enigma to parents. It is more compelling than sex, more dangerous than smoking, and more intoxicating than alcohol. Drug addiction is also a riddle to professionals. Psychological tests cannot predict who will become an addict. We still do not know for sure what predisposes a person to addiction, what promotes it, and what prevents it.

THE DISCOVERY that their child is an addict is a soul-shaking experience for parents. In the shock and rage of the moment they may be tempted to react with brutality and rejection, or with pity and indulgence. Neither of these responses is helpful.

When Mr. A. found out that his 15-year-old son was a heroin addict, he became enraged. He chained his son to a bed and kept him in the room for three days. The "cold turkey" treatment almost killed the boy. It also destroyed forever his relationship with his father.

Mrs. B., a widow, discovered that her 16-year-old son was a heroin addict and in debt to some criminal characters. She felt so heartbroken and scared that she immediately paid off his debts. She also kept on retrieving pawned articles stolen from her home by her son. Thus, indirectly this mother became her son's pusher. Her fear and pity maintained his drug habit.

Tinkle of Smog Next for Town

ZERMATT, Switzerland (AP)—One of the last refuges from the internal combustion engine is threatened. A road is creeping nearer this famous alpine resort where traffic sounds are tinkling bells of horse-drawn sleighs and the purr of hand-operated electric baggage trucks.

SOFT-SELL SAM

"AND MY SUGGESTION IS THAT ALL SUGGESTIONS BE WRITTEN ON LIGHTER PAPER. THESE SAIL LIKE BRICKS!"

Most teenagers manage to surmount these hardships. Some teenagers cannot face the responsibilities of maturity. Engulfed by fears of failure, they find in drugs an imagined shortcut to security.

The specific solution to drug dependency cannot be divorced from the general problem of personality development. The more we learn how to meet our children's legitimate needs, the less they will have to resort to illegal gratifications. The more self-dependence, the less drug-dependence. The more self-direction, the less chemical escape.

The best guards against drug abuse are attitudes and skills that allow us to remain human and helpful even when we make demands, set limits, and insist on values.

SUNDAY: Efforts to co-exist.

By Associated Press

In nearly a score of states since the fall semester began, high schools and grade schools have become arenas of racial tension and student revolt, abetted in a few instances by white and Negro adult militants and organized young radicals.

In a Pittsburgh high school, a bare-breasted girl ran through a hall, urging pupils to leave classes. Negroes protested the playing of "Dixie" in South Carolina and Florida schools. Regulations on long hair and clothing sparked unrest in Dallas. Run-down facilities aroused a group of Boston high school students.

Fights between Negroes and whites have been frequent, and in Louisiana a white man was shot to death in an argument over school integration. In New York, Black Panthers reportedly are involved in an effort to replace a white junior high principal with a Negro.

In Columbia, S.C., parents of Indian ancestry invaded an elementary school in an effort to force increased enrollment of their children. They were supported by civil rights groups, including the black Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

PITTSBURGH has suffered from student racial unrest which Public Safety Director James Cortese attributed to militants and to tensions in the heavily Negro North Side.

A group of about 30 female demonstrators invaded Pittsburgh's South Hill high and distributed literature of the radical Students for a Democratic Society. The bare-breasted girl acted in their support. Police arrested 26 girls in a scuffle and said all but one were from outside Pennsylvania.

Allegheny and Oliver high schools on Pittsburgh's North Side were closed for a time this week because of fighting between blacks and whites — blamed in part by police on SDS agitation.

Said Pittsburgh School Supt. Louis Kishkun: "Our best information is that the entire North Side is in turmoil. Youngsters are bringing those tensions right into the school. Oliver and Allegheny are well-integrated high schools that are not crowded and yet, tragically, they have been beset by violence, hatred and friction."

In New Jersey, New Brunswick high was closed after a boycott staged by 175 white students, who demanded more protection against Negro students. Meanwhile all 11 city schools were closed because the district's liability insurance expired. School officials said they were caught by surprise, although break-ins and disorders in city schools during the past year caused an estimated $21,000 in damage.

SCUFFLING between black and white students was reported in Cairo and Urbana, Ill. In Chicago, 24 Negroes were arrested this week after four separate fights broke out in Austin high, in a racially tense area of the city. The principal said the melee began after 25 blacks walked into the cafeteria and hurled trays and plates.

In Michigan, the quality and prices of food in Battle Creek's Central high led to a demonstration that got out of hand. It spread to downtown department stores, where a mob ran through, stealing articles and fighting with clerks. Fourteen persons were hurt and five arrested.

In nearby Jackson, Mich., Negro and white students argued after a high school night football game. Five persons, including three policemen, were hurt in a subsequent flareup and sports events were rescheduled for daylight hours the following week.

Classes were canceled at two high schools and two junior highs in Detroit, after racial disorders disrupted schedules. Several dozen windows were broken near Post Junior high, and at Mumford high police dispersed a crowd of 200 bottle- and brick-throwing students. The fighting broke out after a Mumford rally addressed by a black separatist, Richard Henry. He is an official of the Republic of New Africa, which seeks creation of an independent black state of the southern United States. "When I got to the school," Henry said, "there was a great deal of talk about going out to fight the police. But I told them not to fight the police now. I told them we would train them."

Yippies sought to spark a walkout at Lake Highlands high in Dallas to protest school regulations on long hair and clothing. But it was foiled when police showed up and locked the doors.

Twenty black members were suspended from the Pensacola, Fla., high school band after they walked off the field last week when "Dixie" was played. The playing of the same tune turned a Fort Myers, Fla., pep rally into a racial clash and brought about a brief closing of a school there.

Racial taunts from blacks and whites set off a fight at a football game at Homestead, Fla., and two policemen were stabbed.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference called a boycott that kept more than 3,000 Negro pupils away from classrooms in the Florence, S.C., area. The demonstration apparently stemmed from the closing of an all-Negro school.

A boy has a lot on his mind the first days of school. But getting there safely isn't one of them.

He's thinking about his new teacher. And the old gang. And arithmetic—ugh! He's likely not giving a thought in the world to a car coming around the corner. And he might run into the street in the blink of an eye.

That leaves it up to you, the grown-up in the driver's seat, to think about him and be careful. It means making these youngsters the most important thing on your mind when driving.

But, unfortunately, every year about this time, too many children are killed or injured by motorists who forget to remember.

Your new car dealer is concerned about the safety of the children in your community. And he asks your help in getting all the boys and girls to school safely. And home again. Please.

Israel May Get More U.S. Jets

Prime Minister Refuses to Put Nixon on Spot

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel indicated Friday she has received some assurance from President Nixon of continuing U.S. arms supplies, but she carefully avoided any suggestion of a specific U.S. commitment.

The 71-year-old government chief of embattled Israel was asked at a National Press Club lunch whether she had gotten additional jet fighter planes in her meeting with the President Thursday.

"There has been a policy followed by the United States of sensitivity to the balance of power between Israel and the Arab states and I have reason to believe it will be followed in the future."

SHE HAS BEEN reported asking for 25 Phantom jets in addition to the 50 now being delivered. The first recent shipment was of 16 Phantoms. Mrs. Meir is also said to want 80 Skyhawk fighters and other arms.

Mrs. Meir declared in her brief speech that on Israel's side there have been no government decisions on the boundaries which might be drawn in any general peace negotiation with the Arab states.

Arguing for direct talks between the belligerent states — as distinguished from the big power search for a settlement — Mrs. Meir appeared to be trying to hold out to the Arabs the prospect of wide bargaining over boundaries. As a result of the June 1967 war, Israel now holds large stretches of Arab territory in the Sinai Peninsula particularly.

"We have not drawn maps," she said. "We have our own ideas. But there have been no government decisions on maps. No votes have been taken."

SHE SAID individual cabinet members have their own ideas about what the boundaries should be. She did not say what they were, nor did she suggest large-scale changes in Israel's present military occupation areas. But Mrs. Meir declared a willingness to negotiate and at least left the door open for boundary adjustments.

"We say everything can be put on the table," she declared. "There should be no preconditions."

The Arabs have for years rebuffed the Israeli proposal for direct negotiation. The present U.S.-Soviet talks on the Middle East are an effort to find some formula for peace-making that might eventually get both sides into either direct or long-distance exchange.

But Mrs. Meir said Israel considers direct negotiations necessary to what she called "a revolution in the minds of the Arab leaders." She insisted they must recognize that they have not been able in three wars and years of border clashes to destroy Israel and that they have to build a new era on that.

"They faced war three times and failed," she said. "Now they must decide whether they like us — I don't insist they love us — or not."

Rogers, Gromyko Discuss Mideast

NEW YORK — Secretary of State William P. Rogers met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Friday at a second dinner meeting in hopes of making progress in finding a Mideast peace settlement.

Rogers entered the Soviet mission to the United Nations at 8 p.m. but declined to comment on progress on the Mideast question.

Hard Hats March on The Loop

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than 1,000 white construction workers, wearing their hard hats and work boots, marched to Chicago's loop for the second consecutive day Friday from the site of a federal hearing into charges that Negroes are denied entrance into their unions.

The demonstration began at the U.S. Customs House where Labor Department officials conducted the third day of hearings into the allegations of discrimination in construction jobs. When they were blocked from the hearing room, the "hard hats" began their one-mile trek, marching four abreast, to the Civic Center Plaza.

Helmeted policemen escorted the marchers. No arrests were reported. Most of the workers were in good humor.

Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of Operation Breadbasket of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a coalition leader, arrived at the customs house and was escorted through a pathway formed by helmeted policemen into the hearing room at mid-afternoon.

AN ESTIMATED 500 construction workers booed loudly when Jackson's party arrived and shouted, "if he can get in, why can't we?"

"No coalition," the marchers shouted, referring to the coalition for United Community Action, a group of 60 black neighborhood organizations which is demanding more jobs for Negroes in the building trades.

Several of the workers at the plaza said they were angered because they could not get into the Labor Department hearing.

En route to the Civic Center, they marched three times around the Federal Building, where eight leaders of demonstrations during last year's Democratic National Convention are on trial for inciting riots. The workers chanted "no more hippies; no more hippies" as they circled the building's plaza.

when newsmen asked him to comment. "I am a little late and I think I should go in."

Rogers also was prepared to tackle issues other than the Mideast. These included disarmament, European problems, Berlin, U.N. affairs and Soviet-American relations.

Rogers was Gromyko's host Monday night at their first dinner in the Waldorf Towers.

CROSS COUNTRY ROMP Two Hitchhikers Praise Drivers

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy and Keith Hancox, a hitchhiking Australian couple who have crisscrossed much of the United States and are aiming at the world, stood on a ramp leading to the New Jersey Turnpike and crossed New Jersey — state No. 40 — off their list.

"We average 10 minutes in getting a ride," Keith said Thursday as they put down their knapsacks by a sign reading: "Picking up or discharging passengers is forbidden."

Sure enough, 10 minutes later a car came to a halt and Sandy and Keith piled their knapsacks and themselves into the back seat — bound for Washington and points west.

Hancox, a 25-year-old art teacher from Brisbane, and his bride of three months, a 20-year-old former typist, hadn't even planned to come this way around the world when they first outlined their grand tour.

But a couple of weeks before they left, which was one day after their marriage, they suddenly decided to see America first.

"We never really plan ahead," said Hancox. "We take a ride and go as far as it's going, and then decide where we're going from there."

"The only thing we've really planned to do was to see the Grand Canyon and the moon shot," put in Sandy, "and we saw them both."

"They told us hitchhiking was illegal in most states," said Sandy, "but everybody has been very nice, even the police in most places."

"A New Hampshire policeman told us hitchhiking was illegal in his state but then he looked it up in the book, and found out we were all right if we stayed off the pavement. 'And I've been telling people it was illegal for 10 years,' he said."

Most people who pick them up are kind and generous, they said, and frequently they get a night's lodging and a meal as well. If they don't, they roll out the sleeping bags along the road, under a tree or bush.

Sandy says Keith has the courage for both — "I never had it before but he is so confident in himself" — but she is unconcerned about taking baths in gas station washrooms and eating hot dogs and hamburgers most of the time, the only way they can keep to their $1 a day food budget.

"For about two weeks we were hungry all the time," she said, "but then we got so we could go all day without eating and not feel it."

When the couple arrived in New York to stay with friends for about a week, they had just "done" New England, and New York was the 39th state.

It almost became the low spot in their trip when a knife-wielding thief took all their cash, $15, in an uptown park.

But several New Yorkers who read of the incident in a newspaper responded so generously the bad taste turned into a sweet one.

The visit over, the Hancoxes hitched a ride with a newsman — "It's no good trying to get a ride in a city," explained Keith — and got a last look at Manhattan from the Staten Island ferry.

A few minutes of rolling past the oil tanks on the New Jersey flats and they were ready to get out and start thumbing.

Army Sells Train for $103,030

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — The Army has sold its $3.7-million, one of a kind, Overland Train for $103,030 to an industrial equipment contractor who hopes to use it in transporting men and equipment to Alaskan oil fields.

The 300-ton, 13-car train, capable of carrying 200 tons at speeds up to 20 miles an hour, was purchased by Fred O. Wheat of Jilburn, Ga.

The all-terrain transport travels on 10 feet high rubber tires and each wheel is driven by an electric motor-powered form a central generator. It can travel 350 to 400 miles without refueling.

Wheat said supplies to the frozen Alaskan oil fields now are moved by a tractor drawing a train of cargo sleds at a top speed of three miles an hour.

The train was built by G. I. LeTourneau Inc. of Longview, Tex., and delivered to the Army in 1962. It has been at the Yuma, Ariz., proving grounds since and hasn't been operated since 1963.

Subsequent to delivery of the train, the Army turned to helicopters to getting cargo over rough terrain. The train was declared surplus in 1967.

The Defense Logistics Services Center here tried to sell the train last May, but the highest bid came to only $71,230 and was rejected. An expert said the generator and electric motors alone were worth more than the bid.

The train's cab is air conditioned and heated and has complete quarters for a crew of six. Builders said the crew could live and work comfortably, whether in the Sahara Desert or on the Greenland Ice Cap.

Anti-U.S. Riot Rocks Campus

RIO PIEDRAS, P.R. — Angered by the sentencing of a draft evader to jail, hundreds of students invaded a Reserve Officer Training Corps building at the University of Puerto Rico Friday and set fire to furniture.

Outside, other students burned a U.S. flag and chanted "Fire! Fire! The Yankees like fire!"

Island police were not called to the campus and no arrests were made.

The demonstration erupted soon after word spread that one student, Edwin Feliciano Grafals, had been sentenced to a year in prison for refusing to serve in the U.S. armed forces.

The students swiped a ladder and climbed through windows and desks and set fires.

About 50 ROTC officers, cadets and secretaries were in the building when the students struck.

The demonstrators also stoned a fire truck that tried to reach the ROTC building and later punctured three of its tires.

Non-Nuclear 'Steel Rod' ABM Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon is experimenting with a non-nuclear antiballistic missile defense that would hurl steel rods at incoming missiles to knock them down, congressional testimony revealed Friday.

According to sketchy references remaining in heavily censored House Armed Service Committee testimony, demonstrations of the concept have provoked sufficient military interest to warrant development funds.

The testimony was taken in private May 8 from Grant L. Hansen, assistant Air Force Secretary of research and development, and Air Force Gen. Marvin L. McNickle, deputy chief of staff for research and development.

The exact details of the weapon were not clear, but it appeared to be a radar-guided missile — perhaps already in earth orbit — that could intercept incoming nuclear warheads high above earth.

The topic was raised in the context of a discussion of research on satellite sensors apparently connected with the "interception and destruction" of offensive missiles.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., asked Hansen if he saw any hope for "this non-nuclear approach," and Hansen replied: "Yes, sir, I think this is an idea that merits trying out."

Rivers said it looked like it had "possibilities," since it could distinguish real missiles from radar-fooling metal "chaff" released by the enemy, then "you throw out these steel rods, and it (the warhead) plows through these rods and tears up the things..."

Hansen said "the real problem with the non-nuclear kill is making sure that we can get close enough to the target... the only thing is the non-nuclear kill has to have a kill mechanism, and the deployed rods idea is a promising one."

"The second part of the non-nuclear kill problem is the terminal homing guidance problem to get close enough to the target so that when you throw these steel rods at it, they will have enough energy to kill it when they collide."

Hansen said a "prototype system" of the satellite sensors related to non-nuclear ABMS was scheduled for testing in mid-1971 and early 1972, but the tests would not include "actual interception and the destruction."

The exact amount requested for the non-nuclear ABM program was censored, but Rivers indicated the request was in the neighborhood of $31 million for fiscal 1971, but had already been cut about $12 million.

Servicemen Clubs Under Senate Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate hearings will begin Tuesday on reports of widespread abuses in the operation of army servicemen's clubs. The hearings follow the dismissal of a government official and revocation of an Army sergeant major's distinguished service medal.

Investigators said witnesses at next week's hearings of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee would discuss allegations that some customers of the firm, the Maremont Co., were service club managers who also owned stock in the company.

The investigations prompted the abrupt dismissal early this month of Carl C. Turner, the Justice Department's Chief of U.S. Marshals for only five months. Turner was a retired Army major general who, as provost marshal, had responsibility for investigating possible violations of army regulations, including financial irregularities in servicemen's clubs.

Excessive Sewage Closes 6½ Miles of State Beaches

MONTEREY (AP) — The county Health Department Friday ordered 6½ miles of beaches be closed immediately to all swimming and water contact sports because of "excessive sewage contamination" by four cities.

Affected are beaches between Seaside and Monterey, Carmel Beach near Carmel and Asilomar State Beach at Pacific Grove.

Santa Cruz County health officials said that "in all likelihood" Pleasure Point, a popular surfing area near Santa Cruz, also will be closed.

Dr. Richard Fraser, director of the Monterey County Health Department, told a meeting of city and county officials that Monterey, Seaside, Pacific Grove and the Carmel Sanitary District were chief polluters of the bay.

He added that only four of 12 districts discharging sewage in Monterey Bay met existing health requirements and listed Port Ord and the City of Santa Cruz as having "dangerously high" bacteria readings.

Fraser began a year-long study of bay pollution last April for the Monterey County Board of Supervisors. He said no results were to be released before the completion of the study, but tests during the first six months were "so significant" that he had to take immediate action.

Coastline Gap Hit by Cranston

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston said Friday "time is running out on the California coast" because there is a "business - conservationist" gap threatening to despoil the coastline.

Cranston, speaking at a meeting of the Mine County Redwood Empire Association, said "unless we act now to preserve areas like the Point Reyes National Seashore, private interests will gladly acquire the land for their subdivisions and development."

Cranston urged Governor Ronald Reagan to call for an inventory of coastal lands and develop a master plan for the use of California shoreline.

"The real tragedy of Santa Barbara is not the dead wildlife and blackened sands," Cranston said, but "... the nearly complete absence of environmental analysis, planning."

Cranston's warning followed a speech Thursday night by State Controller Houston Flourney in which he said California will lose millions of dollars in royalties and bonuses if it insists on receiving guarantees against leaks in tidelands oil wells.

Flourney said the State Lands Commission, which he heads, issued a moratorium and hasn't approved any new tidelands drilling leases since the blowout of a Union Oil Co. well last winter off Santa Barbara.

GARDENING

BEGONIAS ... Attractive Color All Year

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Glistening bronze colored foliage with rich pink semiplobes Begonia blossoms, planted in a semi circular outdoor planter box (which is a unit of the front porch house wall) frames the outside portion of the base of the long living room windows at the floor level, with masses of attractive color nearly the year round. I is an interesting and showy planting near the front door. People enjoy viewing the blossoms through the living room windows.

Container plants too can brighten porch or patio with color and restful green foliage.

Grow in a container your own bouquet of spectacularly showy tropical bird-like orange-blue-white combination flowers topped on tall spikes of Strelitzia reginae, "Royal Bird of Paradise." Should you use some of the beautiful flowers for indoor cut flower use, figure you are saving from .50 to .85 cents per flower spike, because that is the average cost per bloom at several local southland florists, when available.

THE BLOSSOMS develop slowly and last several weeks on the plants. The cut blooms last a week and longer indoors.

There's a trick in knowing how to select the nearly ultimate size of sun-loving adult plants you would like for specific landscape use. Observe the length of the leaf stalk between the base of the leaf and the nubbin which is a slight swelling lower down on the upper side of that leaf stalk. The shorter the leaf stalk between those two areas means the smaller the plant when it reaches maturity. The shortest will be a petite almost dwarf plant, the preferred size for containers. (Our 15 year old bird of paradise plant first used as a container plant now growing in the garden is only 22 to 24 inches tall. The flower spikes grow several inches taller. They, too, are smaller, more graceful looking in proportion to the leafage.)

Plants with medium-length leaf stalks grow to around three feet tall, whereas the 1-0-0 leaf stalk plants grow to four or five feet tall.

THE SHADY area of the porch or patio may be brightened by a camellia that provides blossoms for about three months during the winter. The duration of blossoming is because the flower buds don't develop all at once.

There are a number of flower forms and colorful varieties to select. The gardener must decide whether he wants an early blooming variety that begins to bloom in October, or one that starts to flower in late November, or possibly not till February. The neat appearance of foliage throughout the summer furnishes needed restful green color.

Look no further if you are seeking a low-maintenance container plant for the sunny patio or porch. Go to your local nursery or garden shop and purchase Crassula arborescens, "Jade Plant." This fleshy, succulent, erect shrub with nearly round, somewhat flat but fleshy lime-green or darker green leaves and light pink clusters of flowers during the winter, has a sleek well groomed look nearly the year around. We don't know of any garden pests that are attracted to this plant. It eventually grows around five feet and larger in the ground, yet in the container it stays dwarf-like. It is one of fewer outdoor container plants that may be grown indoors.

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q.—I'm interested in finding a nursery that carries the Fritillaria Imperialis. Kitano's Nursery doesn't have them or know of a nursery who might have this beautiful plant.

A.—If Davids and Royston Bulb Co., Inc., 5256 W. Washington Blvd., Los Angeles California 90016 doesn't have them, and doesn't know where to obtain them for you write Wayside Gardens, Mentor, Ohio. If this firm doesn't have them, then send for the seeds or plants or bulbs from George W. Park Seed Co., Greenwood, South Carolina.

Q.—Please tell me how to take care of my English walnuts. Do you pick them? Do they ripen? How do you cure them? In the past I read about curing them, but didn't have a tree then. The library only had information on storing the shelled nuts.

A.—Early harvesting of the nuts and rapid curing aids in the quality and taste of the fruit. Nuts are shaken from the tree with the help of a hooked pole or long pole pruners. Hulls are removed to cure them. An English walnut tree needs deep watering, and should be watered periodically, also during the winter in case there's a prolonged dry spell.

A day or two after a deep watering, in late October, apply bone meal over the soil and lightly scratch in. Spread manure over the soil and water in well. Repeat watering a day or two later. Feed the tree a balanced plant food containing less nitrogen than the other fertilizer elements, in late January or early February.

Q.—My Hale peaches were covered with a gum substance and I lost most of the fruit. I sprayed with a dormant spray in the fall and spring as usual. The tree is several years old. This is the first year I've had this trouble. Will you please tell me what to do?

A.—A second or a third brood of peach twig borers attack the fruit causing a gummy substance. Ralph Chacon, "Doc" Cha-Kem-Co's Horticultural Guide on pests and fungus diseases recommends chlorthane spray concentrate, or malathion 50 spray, as a summer control.

Jim the Jet Is 'Healthy' for Wildcats

By LOEL SCHRADER Staff Writer

A week ago, USC football coach John McKay said the Trojans "and to scrap 90 per cent of our offense" because of Jimmy Jones' aching back. The Trojans survived with a 31-21 victory in their season opener at Nebraska.

Well, Jimmy the Jet has been romping like a colt in workouts this week, which may portend serious problems for Northwestern tonight at the Coliseum.

The Trojans are 23-point favorites to mop up the Wildcats before a home-opener crowd of 55,000. The kickoff is scheduled at 8.

"As far as I know, Jones is in fine condition," said McKay Friday. "We plan to use him to carry the ball much more."

"How much more, I can't say. He had the type of injury that could come back if he's hit on the same spot."

Confined to a passing role last week, Jones completed 8 of 16 attempts for 164 yards and two touchdowns.

McKay said he also hopes to give Jim Fassel, transfer from Fullerton J.C., playing time at quarterback.

Only one USC lineup change is contemplated from the offense and defensive teams that opened against Nebraska.

"We might start Terry DeKraai at split end," said McKay. "All three of the youngsters at that position (DeKraai, Sam Dickerson and Gary Orcutt) have looked very good in practice, and it's kind of unfair to start the same player each game."

Dickerson opened against Nebraska.

Clarence Davis will start again at tailback, but McKay also plans to take a long look at Lou Harris, speedy transfer from Sacramento City College.

Northwestern sustained a 35-10 loss to Notre Dame in its first game last week.

The Wildcats, billed as primarily a passing team, had success running against the Irish but their quarterback, Dave Shelbourne, was a victim of a Notre Dame blitz that dropped him 11 times on passing attempts.

Shelbourne wound up with 10 completions in 25 attempts.

Northwestern held a 10-0 lead over Notre Dame in the first period and trailed by only 14-10 going into the fourth quarter.

USC will be seeking its fourth victory without defeat over the Wildcats. The Trojans won last year's meeting at Evanston, 24-7.

LONG BEACH BIDS TO AVENGE 35-7 SHELLACKING Eyes of Texas Fall on 49ers Tonight

By JIM MCCORMACK Staff Writer

KINGSVILLE, Tex. — What a difference a year makes.

Last season the coaches at Texas A & I talked for weeks of the exploits of Cal State Long Beach end Billy Parks in an effort to get their football team up for the game with Cal State Long Beach.

The Javelinas responded with their best effort of the year, a 35-7 shellacking of the 49ers.

Now the Javelina coaches are not speaking of Parks, but of the 49er team as a whole. They haven't forgotten the 49er all-America, but after watching films of Cal State's 32-16 win over UC Santa Barbara, they acknowledge the great improvement in the 49er football team.

How that additional concern effects the Javelinas will be determined tonight when the 49ers challenge A&I before an anticipated 14,000 Texas partisans.

Radio station KNAC-FM (105.5), with Larry Myers handling the play-by-play, will air the contest beginning at 5:30 p.m.

"Long Beach is devastating," A & I coach Gil Steinke reported after watching the 49ers against Santa Barbara.

"They are a much better team with (Leon) Burns, (Shawn) McKinney and (Jeff) Riggins to compliment Parks."

There are those who also think A&I is improved, quite an achievement for a team which was 10-2 last season and reached the finals of the NAIA playoffs.

Pollsters say A&I is improved, listing Steinke's charges second and ninth in wire service college division grid polls, and No. 1 in NAIA ratings.

"They have an excellent football team," CSCLB offensive coach Chuck Boyle admitted after studying A&I films in search of defensive shortcomings.

"They have a very mobile, quick defense. And they have a very fine offense. Their quarterback (Karl Douglas) isn't a classic passer, but he is a winner."

SPEEDY VIKING

Long Beach City College will spring speedy halfback Jim Kirby on Cerritos at Veterans Stadium tonight. Freshman ran for 98 yards and two touchdowns at Harbor last week.

Vikings, Cerritos Go to Post Seeking Maiden Win Tonight

By DAVE DANIEL

"Running in tough luck" is a favorite phrase of turf handicappers when talking about a good horse that hasn't been able to win.

"Look for improvement" is another one. Apply them both to Long Beach City College's football team.

"No telling how good" is the handicapper's way of describing a horse which is virtually untested — an unknown factor, so to speak. Apply this to Cerritos College.

Both teams are off to the races tonight at Veterans Stadium as the Vikings host former Metropolitan Conference stablemate Cerritos. Post time is 8 o'clock with the game being broadcast on KLFN-FM (88.1) beginning at 7:40.

The Vikings broke slowly from the gate in their first outing, losing a 26-12 decision last week at Harbor College. Cerritos is opening its season and comes into the game with high hopes of scoring its maiden win.

It takes just two to make a race and that's exactly what the Vikings are involved in with Cerritos.

L.B.C.C. has a history of setting the pace (breaking to a fast start and early lead) while Cerritos is strong in the stretch (a plodding, come-from-behind team.)

Both styles are effective, but neither is guaranteed. The Falcons would be slight favorites if pari-mutuel wagering were allowed.

Cerritos will use a balanced attack with quarterback Mike Ernst in the saddle. He'll throw to wingback Bain Brick, while the running game will be headed by fullback

Ken Hamilton, freshman Steve Sutton and halfback Paul Castorina.

L.B.C.C. coach Paul Chafe Widel at quarterback, who will counter with Terry made an impressive debut last week, and runners Ed Giles, Lenny Gaeta, Jim Kirby and Tony Hagan.

Bruins 21-Point Choice Over Wisconsin Sophs

By DAVE LEWIS Staff Writer

MADISON, WIS. — Their hopes of a banner season buoyed by lopsided victories in their first two outings, the Bruins of UCLA will go after win No. 3 here today when they oppose the University of Wisconsin, which is desperately battling to climb out of the Big Ten cellar with a highly-rated crew of sophomores.

The Bruins are 21-point favorites over the Badgers.

The size of the score is important in that it will weigh heavily in the national rankings.

Oklahoma, one of the leaders in the Big Eight, rolled to a 48-21 win over Wisconsin last week, and the Bruins hope to do as well or better than that 27-point margin in order to protect its No. 9 ranking in the UPI's national poll.

The Bruins have averaged 39½ points in their first two starts against Oregon State and Pitt, and their striking force is expected to have another field day against the Badgers as Long Beach's Dennis Dummit operates out of the quarterback spot with such runners as Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton and Bob Manning to rely on along with such talented receivers as Gwen Cooper, George Farmer and tight end Mike Garrett.

The game will mark the third in two years in which UCLA will play on a synthetic field. The playing surface in Wisconsin's historic Camp Randall Stadium is Turlan Turf, thus rain will not seriously effect the Bruins' superior quickness. It's been raining the past two days.

Wisconsin has a young team which has the potential to develop into a winner in a year or two. The Badgers have nine sophomores among the 22 offensive and defensive starters, and seven more on the second team, plus 16 juniors on the first two units.

The Badgers' fortunes can only go up after a two-year victory drought. They haven't won a game since they nipped Minnesota, 7-6, in the 1966 finale.

Since then, they are 0-20-1 through last week's opener with Oklahoma. The lone tie was with Iowa midway through the '67 season.

Among its sophomores, Wisconsin is proudest of such runners as Greg (Grape Juice) Johnson and fullback Alan (A-Train) Thompson, who set a school record against Oklahoma by gaining 220 yards on 33 carries. Although Grape Juice is being replaced in the starting lineup by Joe Dawkins of San Pedro, he nevertheless is expected to see heavy duty.

A crowd of 42,000 is forecast.

Irish 'to Forget Superstition' Against Phipps-Piloted Purdue

Combined News Services

Only Notre Dame, among the nation's top 10 college football teams, figures to have a tough time today, according to the oddsmakers.

The eight-ranked Irish, who opened their season with an impressive victory over Northwestern last week, take on an old nemesis in 14th-ranked Purdue. Notre Dame began the week a one-point underdog but their backers across the country established the Irish a 1½-point favorite, willing to wager a few dollars their heroes can contain the Boilermakers and star quarterback Mike Phipps.

"There seems to be a superstition that we always lose down there," linebacker Bob Olson said as he looked forward to the trip from South Bend to Lafayette. "But we're going to forget that superstition."

Notre Dame hasn't won at Purdue since 1961, and has been beaten the last two years by teams directed by Phipps. No quarterback back since the turn of the century has taken a team to three successive victories over Notre Dame.

Phipps warmed up for Notre Dame by breaking a Purdue total offense record in last week's 42-35 season opening victory over Texas Christian. He gained 390 yards, 286 passing and 104 running as the Boilermakers rolled up a school record 583 yards.

Notre Dame's defense made the difference in last Saturday's 35-10 victory over Northwestern, and coach Ara Parseghian is counting on it this season to make up for the mistakes his young offense is bound to make.

The defense features Olson, a 230-pounder serving as captain the second year in a row, and 274-pound tackle Mike McCoy. The blitzing Irish caught Northwestern's quarterback behind the line of scrimmage 11 times last week.

Top-ranked Ohio State, favored to retain its national championship, is pegged a three-touchdown favorite over Texas Christian, which is in the middle of a three-week suicide schedule. The Horned Frogs, already having lost to Purdue and not figured to do much better against the Buckeyes, next take on fourth-ranked Arkansas next Saturday.

This week, the Razorbacks, co-favored with third-ranked Texas to win the Southwest Conference championship, are overwhelming favorites over out-manned Tulsa while the Longhorns are 17-point choices over Texas Tech. However, the line on the Texas game would be misleading as the Red Raiders opened with an impressive win over tough

Kansas last week and boast one of the leading defenses in the Southwest.

Sixth-rated Oklahoma should have little trouble against hapless Pittsburgh.

Georgia, a contender for Southeastern Conference honors, is favored by 13 over rugged Clemson while 10th-ranked Florida is favored by seven over Mississippi State.

Rutgers and Princeton, who met in the first intercollegiate football game 100 years ago, renew their rivalry for the 60th time at New Brunswick, N.J. Princeton holds a 50-9 edge in the series but Rutgers is given a good chance of repeating their first triumph of a century ago.

Stanford and Oregon meet in the only Pacific-8 Conference game while the Big Ten provides the opposition in five of the remaining six games on league schools' schedules.

Stanford, whose star quarterback Jim Plunkett performed well in a 63-21 victory over San Jose last week, is at home to a dark-horse Oregon team that battered Utah, 28-17.

In other games, Washington is at Michigan, Washington State travels to Iowa, California is at Indiana, UCLA plays at Wisconsin, Southern Cal hosts Northwestern

CAN YOU AFFORD TO GO INTO BUSINESS?

Chances are good you can... and you may not even realize it. It's true opening a business of your own in most cases can put a real heavy drain on your savings. But 7-Eleven has a new answer! With a 7-Eleven Store franchise, you can own your own business now... with a cash investment that is remarkably small... and pay the balance of your investment over a period of time... from your profits!

"In a nutshell."

Here's the way it works. 7-Eleven puts you in business with a complete opening inventory... a choice location... great ad campaigns... and complete merchandising and bookkeeping services. What else do you need? It's a success formula that's bringing other franchise owners anywhere from a minimum of $19,000 a year*... to as much as $40,000 a year gross income. *Is previous experience necessary?

No previous grocery experience is necessary... as a matter of fact, your wife can play a major role in the management of the store. (That's right our most successful stores are family operated.) You see, 7-Eleven has one of the most advanced training school concepts in the country... making you, literally, experts of the business, in a matter of weeks!

*Are franchises now available?

Franchises are available now... and right here in California. Take the first step now, and mail the coupon below... today! This could be just the opportunity you and your family have been waiting for!

*$19,000 MINIMUM ANNUAL GROSS INCOME EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 1, 1969

7-ELEVEN

Pirates Scuttle Shepard; Phils Promote Lucchesi

Associated Press

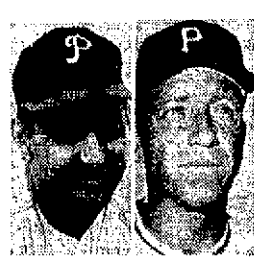

The annual year-end baseball game of managerial musical chairs picked up tempo Friday, moving from the slow pace of a waltz to the rapid beat of a bugle with the firing of Larry Shepard at Pittsburgh and the hiring of Frank Lucchesi at Philadelphia.

At the same time, the New York Mets put together a hurried press conference to reveal that Manager Gil Hodges had been rewarded with a new three-year contract at a reported boost in pay to $75,000 for guiding the club to the National League East title.

Shepard, in his second year with the Pirates, became the sixth manager to either quit or be fired this season with the strong possibility that there will be other moves made by the 24 clubs in the next several weeks.

At Pittsburgh, general manager Joe Brown said Shepard was fired because "things didn't work out as we thought they would" but he refused to elaborate on the reasons for the firing.

LUCCHESI SHEPARD

ing since "an indictment going into the bill of particulars wouldn't serve any useful purpose."

Alex Grammas, one of the Pirates' coaches, was selected to handle the club for the final five games. Brown pointed out that either Grammas or another coach, Bill Virdon, could have served as manager.

He also emphasized that Grammas' selection did not mean he would be chosen as manager. While Grammas and Virdon certainly must be considered, it is generally felt that the leading managerial candidate is Don Hoak, a popular former Pirate now managing at Columbus.

Lucchesi ends the interim status imposed on George Myatt when he took over for Skinner, who quit the Phillies in a huff on Aug. 7, citing lack of front office support in the handling of the controversial Richie Allen.

Lucchesi managed Allen

when both were in the minors at Little Rock, Ark. They have publicly disagreed on Allen's treatment there, Allen contending he was the victim of racial bigotry by the fans and Lucchesi refuting that charge.

Asked how he intended to handle Allen this time, Lucchesi said: "I will cross that bridge when I come to it. Right now I have other things to get started."

Hodges' new contract lasts through 1972 and carries a reported $15,000 raise that was made retroactive to cover this season when the Mets took the baseball world by surprise by climbing to the top.

"I asked for nothing and I got three years," said an obviously pleased Hodges. "It's the best contract I've ever had."

POMONA MEETING CLOSES TODAY

Arts and Letters Duels Nodouble

Combined News Services

Arts and Letters, having already proven himself as the 3-year-old champion of 1969, will try to solidify his chances for horse of the year honors when he races against the older Nodouble in the $107,000 Woodward Stakes at Belmont today.

Arts and Letters, winner of the Belmont Stakes in June, has gone on to beat all 3-year-old challengers. The son of Ribot has added victories in the Jim Dandy and the Travers and has trained brilliantly for his meeting with No-doubt, considered the top handicap horse in the country.

Verbalism, winner of his last start, is rated an outsider to score an upset. Another highly successful Los Angeles County Fairgrounds racing season ends today, featuring the 22nd and richest running of the Pomona Handicap at its new distance of a mile and one-quarter.

The traditional Fairgrounds finale this year will offer a purse of $30,000, a boost of $5,000 from last season. With seven horses entered, the gross purse is $32,400 with the winner to receive $19,200.

Instead of the normal dozen races, today's card is comprised of 13 contests, two harness, two quarterhorse and nine thoroughbred. The additional thoroughbred race was programmed to make up for the event which was called "no contest" Tuesday in the aftermath of a serious spill involving apprentice Rudy Rosales. Post-time, as usual, will be noon.

Foreign Invader slipped through along the rail in the stretch to wear down the strongly-favored Sand Canyon and win the $17,455 Gateway To Glory Stakes Friday before 9.30 at Pomona.

Jockey Jerry Lambert was in the saddle as Foreign Invader drew away in the final strides to tally by a half length over Sand Canyon, the 3-5 choice under Don Pierce. Upper Balcony finished third with Banners Image fourth in the field of 10 two-year-olds. Consider Me Lucky was scratched.

Bill Shoemaker, the second winningest jockey in the history of horse racing, will be aboard Triple Tux today in the $20,000-added Leland Stanford Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Shoemaker's 5,833 lifetime wins ranks second to Johnny Longden, who booted home 6,032 winners. Shoe holds the record for most stakes wins, 469.

Stalking Nuke went to the front early and stayed there for a three-length victory in Friday's feature at Bay Meadows.

Week's Wall Street Trend

By DON BATTLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, coming off two straight weeks of gains, tried again the past week but stalled and plummeted into the loss column.

"The whole market for the past week has been testing its ability to break through and go onto higher ground after circulating within a narrow trading range," said one analyst. "That test has not succeeded, and so we should see a retesting in the future weeks."

The market rallied slightly in the middle of the week in anticipation of some break in the tight monetary and Vietnam War policies, but with none coming, fell back.

"The news has not caught up with the market," commented another analyst. "The market rallied in anticipation, then looked behind for some sort of support, but found nothing."

For the week, the Dow Jones industrial average lost 6.21 to 824.18, compared with a 6.14 gain in the previous week.

Standard & Poors' 500-stock index dipped 1.03 to 94.16 after gaining almost a point in the previous week.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks also slipped, closing out the week at 52.23, down .61, compared with a .65 gain the previous week.

A loss was seen in the Associated Press 60-stock average, which fell 1.9 to 288.7 after gaining 1.7 a week ago.

Technical Analyst With Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis

Failing to capitalize on its recent positive bias, the market has once again assumed a defensive stance. The prolonged hesitation just below previous recovery highs is a sign of sluggishness. The failure to penetrate 840 again reinforces this area of upside resistance until this level is penetrated. The overall market trend will remain uncertain.

The benefit of doubt had stared to shift from the upside to the downside. However, no real dip or correction can be projected. The shorter term outlook has turned less dynamic—but is not yet negative. Increasing downside momentum and/or a decline below 820 are needed to indicate a change in the shorter term trend. There has been some technical deterioration in a number of the leading indices, but it cannot yet be considered significant. Therefore, while prospects of another broad rally over the shorter term have been reduced sharply, no significant downturn can be projected yet.

HEAVY CHURNING characterized the recent institutional trading stance. There was a slight decline in the ratio of buying to selling; however, the seasonal tendency to even-up and dress-up portfolios toward the end of the quarter is expected to obscure the meaning of recent activity until a more significant trend is evident in this area. No dynamic market change will be expected. Among the stocks under significant accumulation last week which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are: Ampex (APX-44), Teleclene (TDY-36), Raytheon (RTN-38), Syntex (SYN-72).

GENERAL AMERICAN OIL (GAO-47) down 9 points. Atlantic Richfield (AFI-100) down 5 points, down from recent highs. The glamour stocks of the oil group have recently come under heavy pressure. Most of these issues have broken previous lows. Most are in down trend patterns. Therefore, any rally or rebound not preceded by a base of consolidation or accumulation is expected to prove fleeting and short-lived.

However, these issues are down very sharp in the very short period of time. Nearly all are near or have reached levels that should provide at least near term support. That is General American Oil (40-45), Natamex (70-80), Home Oil (37-40), Atlantic Richfield (90-100). Thus, while the group is weak, limited, shorter term trading opportunities could develop.

THE TWO MOST depressed issues are Home Oil and General American Oil. Very aggressive trading accounts could attempt to trade those issues provided a close stop loss order is used. All other accounts should consider a rebound more of a selling than a buying opportunity.

Speculative interest has been noticed in select conglomerates recently. The fact that the group is still very depressed should attract additional interest. While we do not expect any sustained upturn in this area. Certain issues have started to show increasing relative strength. That is AMK Corp (AMK-28), Ling Temco Vought (LTV

Suit by Hypnotist Sounds Familiar

By GEORGE ERES
TV- Radio Editor

This sound familiar to you? A performer filed suit against the three TV networks and the National Association of Broadcasters, "attacking the networks' boycott and the TV Code's restraints . . ."

Nope, not the Smothers Brothers.

This suit was filed — I believe before the Smothers Brothers action — by Pat Collins, a hypnotist who charges she has been kept off the television screen "Because of her approach to her medium of entertainment . . . and the fear of ensuring correspondence to the TV networks claiming that she is a 'witch,' 'evil spirit,' and other claims of superstitious mysticism."

The publicity firm handling Miss Collins' notes that "although Miss Collins was once a frequent guest on many television shows, she has not been permitted to appear, even as a game-show panelist, on a network show for nearly three years . . ."

Well, why not? If, as they say, the air is "free" what's to stop anybody who's ever been on TV — or even not been on TV — from filing a suit against the networks charging that their rights are being violated.

Yep, where will it all end?

I WAS interested in a couple of comments by Julian Goodman, president of NBC, in a statement about the report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence.

"The report's program statistics are based on a definition of violence as 'the overt expression of force intended to hurt or kill.' Under that definition, a single incident — however slight — would result in classifying the whole program as 'violent,' regardless of the dramatic circumstances or the program's quality and value. Program evaluations should not rest on so narrow and mechanical an approach, and program statistics based on such a definition do not have much meaning . . ."

"We are gratified that the report does not seek — as less careful observers have done — to blame television for the serious national problems that have their roots deep in complex and frustrating social, political and economic conditions that are unrelated to television."

"In our research we have learned, as the report recognizes, that 'it is difficult to design studies linking human behavior or personality formation to media content' and that interpreting the effects of television on behavior is 'a problem that is as yet imperfectly understood.'"

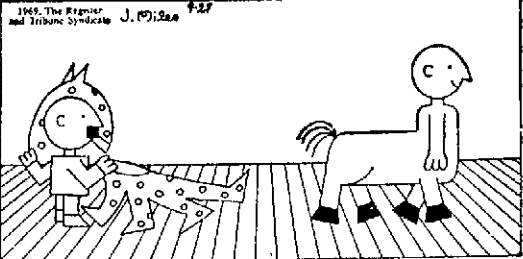

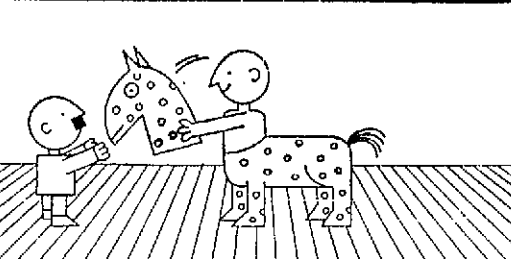

"Nevertheless, we agree that even though harmful effects of violence on television have not been established, broadcasters must take care to avoid depiction of any material that thoughtful and responsible judgment suggests might be harmful . . ."

RCA Chief Says New Techniques Threaten to Inundate Industry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Robert W. Sarnoff, President of RCA, said Friday that the sudden emergence of new communications techniques and the consequent outpouring of new data threatens to inundate the industry.

"The evidence so far indicates widespread unpreparedness to absorb more than a fraction of the accumulated data or to make truly effective use of new communications and information techniques," the RCA president said in a speech prepared for delivery to the commonwealth club of California.

BUT, said Sarnoff, business is showing a "greater preoccupation with quantity than quality — more concern with amassing new facts than with developing the structure and relationships that will convert them to meaningful informations."

Unless business harnesses the new technology, he said, "we shall face the possibility of a breakdown rather than a breakthrough in our management of public and private enterprises."

Sarnoff suggested three directions in which progress could be made.

He said technology must tailor informations systems more closely to the great variety of people who use them, that education and training should be employed to "strip away the mystery that so often surrounds the systems" and called on business and government to develop executive competence in management technology.

"THE PROBLEM is basically one of developing a new point of view about the relationship between ourselves and the information flow," Sarnoff said. "In the past, we have been accustomed to standing apart from our means of communication, using them as needed in the same way that we use other tools and trappings of modern industrial society."

"There is still time, but not much time, to prepare intelligently before it moves beyond the reach of rational planning and control," the RCA president said.

CSLB Band at Ball Game

The Forty-Niner Band at California State College at Long Beach will perform during half-time at the grid clash between the San Diego Chargers and the New York Jets Sunday.

The game, to be held on San Diego's field, will be televised nationally over NBC.

Band director is Larry G. Curtis and David Martin is assistant director.

HARBOR CHEVROLET

Over the foreign airliner's public address system came the sound of the Captain's voice. In even, resonant tones, he told the passengers that one engine had just quit, but there was no reason for alarm other than a delay of 2 hours.

Minutes later he announced the total malfunction of a second engine. Reassuringly, he went on to say that other than a further delay of 3 hours, they could proceed safely. Three minutes later, amid a huge puff of smoke and a ball of fire the third engine exploded!

The Captain, in less complacent tones than previously said, "Folks . . . Our third engine has just failed — but by quick thinking, I resorted to our automatic fire control and extinguished the fire! We can continue our flight on one engine — but we'll be delayed at least 9 hours more!"

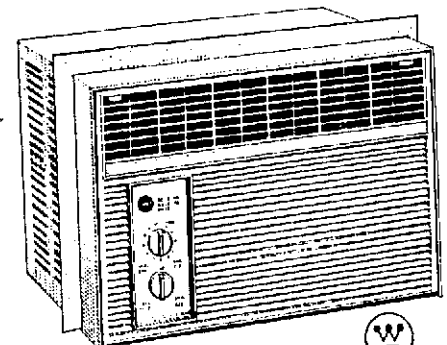

Over the noise of the by-now badly-vibrating craft, the passengers heard a leather-lunged drunk say, "If that dumb pilot loses one more engine — we'll be up here all night!"

Folks — don't "stay-up" all night wondering where to buy that new 1970 Chevrolet. The place? — Harbor Chevrolet, 3770 Cherry, GA 6-3341. Dial "M" for MEDER.

CSLB Fall Enrollment Tops 27,000

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

More than 27,000 students have enrolled for the fall semester at California State College at Long Beach, keeping the campus first in student population in the state college system.

Budget and space limitations forced the college to turn away about 3,000 qualified students and even more could be barred next year, acting President Donald H. Simonsen said Friday.

The college was budgeted for about 26,400 students, college officials said, but normal student withdrawals will bring enrollment down to that figure in about three weeks.

This fall's enrollment is the second largest in CSLB's history. Last fall, initial enrollment shot up to almost 28,000, setting a record. Enrollment dipped to 26,000-plus last spring when 3,000 applications were also rejected.

Admissions officers at California State College at Dominguez Hills said that campus enrolled 1,893 students, setting an enrollment record there.

Dominguez Hills added 40 new faculty and Long Beach increased its teaching staff by 180.

Simonsen said no further undergraduate applications were accepted after May 6, with exception of those from Vietnam war veterans.

"The enrollment crisis at CSLB has been a perennial problem since the college was originally master planned for 5,000 students," Dr. Simonsen said.

"The growth has continued unabated during the past 20 years at approximately 11 per cent per year."

Vast student growth has been met by "almost completely saturating the campus with classes from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.," he said. "We've even had some classes start at 6:30 a.m."

Dr. Simonsen said the newer state colleges at Dominguez Hills and Fullerton were supposed to take the pressure off CSLB, "but that hasn't been the case."

"Our problem is not typical of the state college system as a whole," he said. "We are desperately short of space. We are the only four-year college in a city of 350,000 population and I think this is unique in the U.S."

Dr. Simonsen said the enrollment crisis has been acute since 1965 when the college reached the "rated capacity for its buildings." Since then, it has accepted increasing numbers of students by placing them in night classes.

"The situation finally reached the breaking point when the college was inundated by students and there was no more flexibility, day or night, for scheduling classes," Dr. Simonsen said.

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1969 SECTION C—PAGE C-1

Although several major construction projects are presently in progress on campus, the two new classroom buildings—in engineering and psychology—won't be available until next fall.

"As a consequence," he said, "the college will enroll 50 per cent more students than the rated capacity of the buildings, even with limitations on admissions."

Both new buildings, engineering and psychology, are specialized facilities which won't improve the "general classroom situation," Dr. Simonsen said.

Next fall, Dr. Simonsen said, about 30,000 students are expected to apply. There won't be enough classroom space for them, either.

"It will be necessary to decline to accept applications from about 3,000 people again," Dr. Simonsen said.

If the school tries to hold its enrollment to its present level until classroom space is available, the college would have to turn down applications from a total 6,000 students, he said.

Navy to Reduce Supply Center Civilian Jobs

The Navy Department announced Friday a 10 per cent reduction in the civilian work force at the Long Beach Naval Supply Center by Dec. 1.

An official said an additional 64 civilian jobs will be eliminated there through normal attrition, for a total reduction of 144 in the center's work force by Jan. 1, 1970.

The reductions, part of an overall program of Navy cutbacks, will result in the loss of about 80 civilian personnel at the center during the next two months.

Capt. Charles Becker, commanding officer of the center, said the layoffs are due to a directive from the Bureau of the Budget to effect an average four per cent annual reduction in federal civilian employment at defense installations, and the necessity to comply with expenditure limitations for fiscal 1970.

The center's civilian work force as of June 30, 1969, was 760, Capt. Becker said, with an estimated annual payroll of $6.5 million.

Those slated for separation will receive assistance in obtaining new positions in this area, he added.

Keep Base Open, Skipper Urges

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Long Beach support in keeping Los Alamitos Naval Air Station open was urged Friday by Capt. Lloyd D. Ruth, out-going base commander.

Capt. Ruth asked the people of Long Beach to join others in the area in keeping the base—largest of the Navy's 18 air reserve stations—at the present location.

"This station contributes about $22 million to the local economy, plus maintaining a state of readiness with selected Naval and Marine Reserves at one-sixth the cost of having these men on active duty," Capt. Ruth said.

The captain made his appeal for support at a luncheon held in his honor by the Long Beach Armed Services Commission. He was presented a memento by Mayor Edwin W. Wade, who also presented a gift to Mrs. Ruth.

Capt. Ruth is slated to retire and step down from his command of the Naval Air Reserve Station in ceremonies which will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday. He will be succeeded by Capt. Grant Boice.

Opposition to the air facility recently cropped up in several neighboring communities and a move has been started to do away with the base—built in 1942 on what was then swampland.

Among reasons cited for closing the facility have been the desire for residential zoning and elimination of jet noise.

Prowlers Get Clubs

George Sotier, of San Diego, told police Friday that while his car was parked in the 600 block of Long Beach Boulevard prowlers forced the right window and fled with a $400 set of golf clubs.

Woman Burned in Home Blast

By RUSS MacDONALD
Staff Writer

A pregnant Long Beach woman was critically burned Friday in a violent explosion which demolished her small, wood-frame home.

Her husband was jailed on suspicion of arson.

Sharon Mary Jackins, 22, told police her husband had tried to repair a gas leak by sawing an outside pipe before the blast ripped through the four-room home at 614 Crystal Court.

The woman, six months pregnant, was treated for burns over 98 per cent of her body according to nurses at St. Mary's hospital.

William B. Jackins, 20, was booked on suspicion of arson after the 4:45 p.m. explosion. He was walking away from the house when the blast occurred, police said.

BATTALION Fire Chief Bill Patterson, who directed four fire units in controlling a small blaze which followed the explosion, said cause of the blast was unknown and is under investigation.

Mrs. Jackins told police her husband, uninjured in the explosion, had earlier used a hacksaw to sever a gas line outside the rear of the house.

The blast ripped out the rear wall and two side walls.

Officers Jim Gladd and Joe Smith, who questioned Mrs. Jackins at the hospital, said the couple had smelled a gas leak since they moved into the house.

Romy Barro, who lives across the street, at 611 Crystal Court, said he witnessed the blast while fixing a television antenna on his roof.

BARRO said seconds before the explosion he saw Jackins talking with his wife at the front door. Mrs. Jackins shut the door, her husband walked away from the porch and the explosion rocked the neighborhood.

Mrs. Jackins told police the blast occurred when she lit a cigarette in the bedroom.

The woman, who was nude when the explosion occurred, told investigators she was getting ready to take a shower.

BUT HER husband told her there was no hot water for a bath when they conversed at the door, Mrs. Jackins said.

Investigators said they found a hacksaw lying near the couch in the shattered house.

Windows were broken in nearby houses, police said.

TO HEAD CITIES LEAGUE Wade Ceremony Set for Tuesday

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SAN FRANCISCO—Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade's installation as president of the League of California Cities, highlighting the organization's 71st annual conference, is scheduled for Tuesday night at the Hilton Hotel here.

The four-day conference will get under way Sunday, with two sessions on sister city programs scheduled. Gov. Ronald Reagan will speak at a luncheon meeting Monday, and Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan will address the concluding conference session at a Wednesday luncheon.

Wade, who will be 66 Oct. 15, has been mayor of Long Beach since his election to the City Council in May 1960. The first vice president of the league this past year, he will be the third Long Beach official to become president of the statewide organization.

City Manager Charles E. Hewes was elected president for the 1920-21 year, and City Board of Health chairman Clarence Wagner served as head of the league in 1953-54.

THE MAJOR THEME OF THE CONFERENCE will be the impact of federal program on California cities. Almost 6,000 officials and guests are expected to attend the opening general session Monday at 9:45 a.m. Outgoing president Jack Hyerson, Mayor of Santa Rosa, will preside over the session at the California Masonic Memorial Temple.

In addition to Reagan and Monagan, speakers at the conference include former state Assemblyman John G. Veneman, now under secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Floyd Hyde, assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development; Tom Fletcher, deputy Mayor of Washington, D.C.; and Jack Melter, Mayor of San Leandro, current president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and a former president of the league.

Slated to participate in panels during the conference are Barney J. Walczak, Long Beach city personnel director; Jo Bennett Lakewood city clerk; Richard Terzian, city attorney of Rolling Hills Estates; Keith Murdoch, Anaheim city manager; Long Beach's Albert E. Hole, state fire marshal; and John J. Collier, Anaheim parks and recreation director.

Educator Agrees to Limit Future 'Clip Joint' Visits

Would you believe — the Orange County Board of Education and Dr. Robert Dea Peterson, county school superintendent are seeking direction from "clip joints."

And why? Ask Dr. Peterson. He'll tell you when you want to sound out public opinion go to "where people have time to answer," like barbershops, beauty shops and the like.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Peterson has been doing that for some time — to the chagrin of the school board.

It seems Dr. Peterson has been going before the board "loaded" with public answers to various school matters.

He has quietly been conducting public opinion surveys in places later dubbed so-called "barbershop polls."

While this was good for Dr. Peterson, it didn't set well with the board because he failed to advise them until he had the answers.

However, after a minor dispute Friday, the board and Dr. Peterson agreed on a more peaceful co-existence.

Dr. Peterson agreed to a "three-poll limit" during any one school year, and tell the trustees — in advance — about the questions.

Future surveys, however, will not be limited to barbershops and beauty salons, but extended to service stations, waiting rooms and coffee shops.

Russ Could Explore With U.S.--Armstrong

Astronaut Neil Armstrong, first man to walk on the moon, visited Southland aerospace plants Friday and said he believes there's room for Soviet cooperation in the U.S. space program.

Armstrong and fellow astronaut Michael Collins visited the North American Rockwell plant in Seal Beach, then attended a celebration at the corporation's Downey plant, where the Apollo 11 moon capsule was built.

If the size of future space vehicles were increased, Armstrong said, there would be room for both U.S. and Russian crewmen in a cooperative venture.

But, he said, the cramped quarters of present space capsules would make it difficult for "people who aren't able to speak the same language to operate as a crew."

Both Armstrong and Collins appeared light-hearted as they answered newsmen's questions.

When first asked about the possibility of taking along a Russian astronaut on the next space flight, Armstrong said:

"Well, I have some difficulty in communicating with Mike."

Armstrong added that manned space flights were "good mediums" for cooperation between nations.

"I think we will see such cooperative ventures," he said.

Newsmen asked the astronauts if the Flat Earth Society had contacted them about their recent space flight.

"No," Armstrong said, "but Michael suggests we send in applications."

Armstrong said he was looking forward to the astronauts' upcoming goodwill tour around the world and said he hoped to share with the world all American space flights.

Once Knocked Religion, Changes Mind on Its Effects

Dear Religious Editor,

I thought you would find it of interest to learn one layman's view of the (for lack of a better term) "religious situation".

I used to feel that religion, as it is popularly conceptualized, was not the successful institution it could be. When I looked around at the current scenes or read history, I noted wars, genocides, exploitation of people, hate more prevalent than compassion, widespread feelings of superiority over other races, groups and individuals, of "man's inhumanity to man" that the poet Burns said "has made countless thousands mourn."

(Samuel Whitman is a former advertising executive who has sparked several successful human relations programs in Long Beach.)

I blamed religion for not stopping all this. What was the good of all the preaching, sermonizing; all the beautiful expressions in proverbs and scriptures, if this seemed to be for naught. Evil was still more prevalent than works for the common good.

As I grow older, my perspective changes. I began taking a harder look at Man.

I must credit religion (and all the other philosophies and philosophers and writers who have "pointed the way") for whatever little "civilization" we now have. If it had not been for all this constant admonishing; the continuing warnings and promises of rewards, we would have probably wiped each other of us off the face of the earth, long ago.

Let's face it—Man is an "ornery critter." It is hard for him to STAY decent. All the constructive things he is told often go down the drain at the behest of one self-seeking demagogue. Germany, in the center of Europe, the cradle of Western civilization, was the scene of one of the most diabolic crimes in the annals of history. In the name of peoples' revolution, millions were slaughtered in Russia. In the name of our declaration of freedom's principles, we enslaved and denigrated the blacks; pushed the American Indian off his lands and practically decimated him; Kept the Mexican-American a second class citizen.

Religion working with such poor clay has accomplished wonders. This is the kind of clay that makes indifference come easier than concern; the kind of clay by which the rights, needs and feelings of others are dimmed by self-interest and compulsion for gain.

It wouldn't take much research to produce evidence of all this and more. Religion (and philosophers) despite working with this kind of building material, must be credited with the moving of us a couple of inches, in the past several thousand years, on the road marked "Civilization".

So it is well to recognize that until man shows he is made of finer clay, the work of all moral teachers is cut out for them, if we are not to lose those precious two inches.

It does not appear to be a startling suggestion, but what else can be said, but . . . "Be resolute. Keep on admonishing."

Servicemen of L.B. Church Not Forgotten

Young men of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Long Beach who leave to serve in the Armed Forces — in Vietnam and elsewhere — know that they are remembered and appreciated.

Through the efforts of churchwomen headed by Mrs. S. C. Cameron, the servicemen regularly receive bulky packets keeping them in touch with things "back home." These include copies of "A Mighty Fortress," general interest publication of the national American Lutheran Church, local newspaper clippings of interest, religious tracts and personal letters of encouragement.

Birthdays are faithfully remembered by cards, and at Christmas each serviceman receives a special package of home baked goodies.

The church at 370 Junipero Ave. currently has 19 young men away in the service.

INSTALLATION

Rev. S. L. Barnhart will be installed as interim pastor at First Church of the Brethren, 3332 Magnolia Ave., at the 11 a.m. services. A former high school teacher and counselor, he served for five years on the denomination's general board, comes from pastorate of South Bay Church in Redondo Beach. He is the son of a minister and met his wife June while they were attending Bethany Theological Seminary in Chicago. He replaces Rev. C. LeRoy Doty Jr.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Thoughts From Asian Paradise

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

This is being written from Paradise. At least that is what Lillian Dickson, veteran Christian worker, calls Taiwan, home of the Free Republic of China. "We have," she declares, "no riots, no strikes, no student uprisings, no hippies and no war. Indeed it is the one peaceful spot on earth today."

This is my third visit to Taiwan. The development of this island republic, equal in size to Massachusetts and Connecticut, is spectacular. Lying only a hundred miles off shore from Red China, the Maoists would dearly love to have it, but apparently haven't what it takes to grab it.

In 20 years time President Chiang Kai-shek, starting from scratch, has built this into a prosperous, dynamic economy. Business and industry are booming. It is said that anyone who wants to work can get a job here. Unlike some Far Eastern lands, you see practically no beggars on the streets. Trains, planes and buses are thronged with well-dressed, industrious people. And they look and act happy.

THE REPUBLIC of China may be a bit weak on public relations in the United States, for Americans have little concept of the startling and dynamic remaking of a sizable territory populated by over 13 million people. An increasing flow of Americans is, however, thronging the deluxe and first-class hotels of Taipei, a city of 1,500,000 people.

Taiwan, whose mountain ranges climb to one peak of more than 13,000 feet, has scenery that equates with Switzerland. This vast vacationland is reached by air-conditioned trains operating on split-second schedules and by a top quality network of roads. One, the Cross Island Highway, runs for 150 miles through the highest mountains, reaching an altitude at one point of 8,000 feet and continuing for miles at the 7,000 foot level.

This road, engineered through mountains that not even the Japanese attempted to master in their 50-year rule in the island, was completed by retired soldiers of the Taiwanese Army. In all of my travels I have never seen a road better engineered or affording more spectacular beauty. It passes for some miles through the Taroko Marble Gorge that ranks among the few greatest travel sights this writer has experienced in a half-century of roaming the world.

We were overnight guests of President and Madame Chiang Kai-shek, friends of many years. The president is a man of obvious physical health and, even in advancing years, his mind is as keen and clear as ever. I asked the secret of his physical and mental health and he smiled, "I pray three times a day." This practice, in his case, means prayer in depth for at least 30 minutes, making an hour and a half of praying each day. Madame Chiang, one of the world's most charming women, is also one of the great spiritual personalities of our time.

The same Lillian Dickson quoted above, the forger who has been here the longest, 42 years in her case, whose Mustard Seed, Inc., operates 17 children's homes in Taiwan, puts her faith against any and all difficulties and seems to come out on top every time. She has a philosophy for tackling problems. It is described by Kenneth L. Wilson in "Angel at Her Shoulder," the life story of this remarkable woman.

IT SEEMS that the present dissatisfaction among students in American colleges also simmered in her student days in the Midwest. There was griping against trustees even then. Why couldn't they have a new gymnasium...? So here is what she did about it. Who knows, it could work today!

She said to the other dissidents, "What do you say we give the trustees a big banquet and thank them for all they have done for

NOTED EDUCATOR TO ADDRESS MEN

Dr. Desmond W. Bittinger, head of the department of sociology at Chapman College, church leader and former president for 15 years of McPherson College in Kansas, will speak at the first annual Communion Breakfast Friday, 7 a.m. in First Congregational Church. The event is backed by the local Council of Churches, and men of all churches are invited. Reservations must be secured. us by giving us this fine college."

"Are you off your rocker? Don't be a dope!" So ran the objections.

But Lillian carried her point. They had the big dinner for the trustees who were shocked and unbelieving as the students proceeded to thank them for everything. The Trustee-President responded that they had received plenty of brickbats from students, but never any thanks before. And even Lillian Dickson wasn't prepared for a newspaper headline a few weeks later: "Trustees start a million dollar building program. New gymnasium promised."

Maybe the dissident students of America could do with a little smartening up. There is a better way than riots, obscenities and law breaking.

GOINGS ON

Latin Radio Voice, 'Little Professor' Here

Rev. Paul E. Finkenbinder, who directs Latin American Radio Evangelism with offices in Costa Mesa, will speak at the Sunday morning and evening services of First Assembly of God, 432 E. 10th St. His broadcast is aired in Spanish almost 250 times a day in 21 Latin countries, is rated one of the forces behind the growth of Protestantism there.

Dr. Laurence Jones, the nationally known "Little Professor of Piney Woods" will preach 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday in Lakewood Village Community, 4919 Centralia St., and again at 4 p.m. when the church hosts the Community Churches of the Southland. Dr. Jones began his school in Mississippi for underprivileged Negro children 40 years ago, stuck it out despite racist harassment, and has been acclaimed on "This Is Your Life" and in Reader's Digest.

Rev. Eugene McDowell of the Narcotic Educational Foundation of America will speak on "Narcotics, a Christian Concern" Sunday 10 a.m. in Geneva Presbyterian, Third and Molino. Rev. David Chamberlain, of one of Great Britain's largest Full Gospel churches, will speak Sunday 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in Calvary Assembly of God, 3640 Santa Fe Ave. It's an eighth anniversary party for Pastor and Mrs. Ponder W. Gilliland at First Nazarene, 2200 Clark Ave. Sunday evening. A musical presentation directed by Mary Schuller is offered Sunday, 7 p.m. in Lakewood Four-square.

'EXTRA DUTY' WITH VIET ORPHANS

Dr. Jess Holm, after seeing hundreds of patients each day at the over crowded Saigon Adventist Hospital, helps out as medical director of programs for orphans, of whom there is no scarcity either. Members of Seventh-day Adventist Church of Long Beach will hear direct phone call from there today, as part of a national mission emphasis. New hospital building is requested. The Adventist hospital opened in 1955 in a converted home is now too small. Two-way conversation will be amplified over public address system in L. B. church.

Indian Family at Bethany

The country's most famous American Indian Christian evangelist, Rev. H. Thomas Claus and his family, will appear at the Sunday School hour 9:30 a.m. in Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave. The church's annual fall round up is based on the Indian theme.

Rev. Claus is a Mohawk from Bethany, Okla. who after his conversion, led the Claus Indian Family to Bible conferences, youth rallies, conventions and large crusades throughout the U.S. and three foreign

Inspirational Tuesday Breakfasts

The Tuesday Community Breakfast Fellowship will open its new program Tuesday at host church Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Atlantic.

The 7 a.m. breakfast session, designed to be an inspirational start in the life of busy men on Tuesday mornings, is for men of all denominations, at the modest price of $1 donation for the heart breakfast. It adjourns at 7:50 sharp.

The inter-church steering committee for this year consists of Bud Holton, Doyle Allen, Tony Freeman, Fred Russell, George McLean, Paul McBride, Dick Bearsall, Vance Bolding and host minister H. David Burham.

countries. He founded the American Indian Crusade and has preached in hundreds of missions to 150 tribes from Eskimo villages in Alaska to Aztec villages in Mexico.

The family has been associated with Billy Graham and other evangelists. In 1966, Rev. Claus was the North American Indian delegate to the World Congress on Evangelism in Berlin. On the final day, Graham asked him to sing the closing benediction in the Indian sign language "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again."

The family team now includes his wife Alfreda and three children, 10, 11 and 13.

GERMAN CHURCH UNITY FAILS

BERLIN (UPI) — The German Evangelical (Protestant) Church, one of the last links between divided Germany, split Friday into eastern and western parts. The split, demanded by the Communist East German government, was announced with regret by the council of the church, which until Friday claimed to speak for the church in both the (Western) Federal Republic of Germany and the (Eastern) German Democratic Republic.

The two branches of the church have been drawing away from each other for years.

FROM THE PULPIT

God does not permit problems that He does not have an answer to. Therefore, there is an answer to your present problem. There are many avenues that you can take, but there is only one right answer. There may be a choice of answers to your problem, but there is only ONE right answer.

Seek, therefore, the companionship of God. Seek near the counsel of God, and then seek the guidance of God. Time will tell you that God's way is the best way and the only right way. If we can help you, please call our office. Attend Calvary this Sunday. Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

BRIEFLY . . .

To Passionately Polarized Parish; Judy's Communion

By LES RODNEY

The art of satire has been hilariously invoked by a member of the congregation of a famed church which, like many others these days, is being pulled between its liberal and conservative factions.

First Community Church of Columbus, Ohio is looking for a new pastor, and its pastoral search committee has this problem. The committee last week received some "advice" from Prof. Walt Seifert of Ohio State University, a member of the church.

"The man you select," he said in an open letter, "should be moderately dynamic, charismatically calm and progressively conservative."

"He must not take any position that might jeopardize the annual fund drive. He and his wife should be teetotalers who hold their martials well. The children should relate cooperatively to all peer groups. Their dogs must like cats."

"Above all, the man you recommend must be a flexible fellow, equipped with a multi-dimensional mind and a forked tongue — programmed to please all elements in our passionately polarized parish."

The letter outlined procedures the new minister should follow on the Sunday service. All hands would sing "Onward Christian Soldiers," (which contains the line "We are not divided . . . all one Army we.") Then the minister asks all conservatives to take seats on the right and all liberals on the left of the sanctuary. A velvet curtain is drawn down the middle.

Facing those on the right, Seifert advises, the minister would preach on topics such as "Christ's Concern for Law and Order," "Perils of Pornography," "Our Revolting Youth" or "Our Spineless Intellectuals."

He would then face left and preach on "Civil Disobedience," "Situation Ethics," or "Police Brutality."

The services would conclude with the folks on the right singing "Faith of Our Fathers" while those on the left sing "We Shall Overcome."

JUDY MARTIN, a Long Beach girl, will receive her first Holy Communion Sunday at 9 a.m. Along with others who cannot walk, she will be transported by tram to the chapel at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital in Downey. There she will be helped toward the altar in a gurney. She is paralyzed since birth. Rev. Henry Marusa, Roman Catholic chaplain at the hospital, will come to Judy and offer communion.

Father Marusa for 12 years has been providing the legs in this fashion for those of God's children who cannot reach the altar on their own. They are brought forward in gurneys, wheelchairs and cribs. Judy's mother, of 808 Via Carmelitos, suggests it is something well worth seeing.

BEFORE WORLD War II, when America's Protestant churches were still to some degree rural-oriented, there was quite a bit of church concern for conservation of natural resources, mainly as it affected farming. This died out with the shift in urban life.

One of the byproducts of the lunar exploration may be a renewed church interest in conservation, stemming from the reminder of the doctrine of creation and man's stewardship of natural resources under God. The book "Spaceship Earth" by Barbara Ward, consultant to the World Council of Churches, makes this point.

Southern California's American Baptists, looking to their annual convention Oct. 18-19, plan major resolutions on the new pressing problems of conservation. In preparation, denomination executive Dr. R. Eugene Crow attended a conservation conference this week at UC-Santa Barbara which took up such questions as environmental pollution control — air, water, noise; beach access and acquisition, regional planning, transportation, open space and parks, new towns, resources and wildlife.

Certainly the desperately late fight to slow down the despoilation of God's green earth can use all the powerful allies it can get, including an aroused church.

THE CHAPLAIN for the State Senate, Rev. Dr. Robert L. Carlson of Pioneer Congregational United Church of Christ in Sacramento, recently offered this prayer to the senators:

"Merciful God, deliver us from being so uptight with the few who wear long hair and beards that we never give thought to the multitudes who go hungry. Deliver us from being so worried that children might hear four-letter words that we are unconcerned that they hear every day violent words of obscenity — murder, riot, napalm, casualties. Help us, gracious God, to keep our priorities straight. Amen."

LUTHERAN FILM Associates, an independent agency related to the three major denominations which participate in the Lutheran Council in the USA, is completing a new feature length film called "Acts."

It is a "cinema verite" drama without actors or formal scripts, telling the story of two men. It centers on the ministry of Washington Square Church in New York's Greenwich Village and the relationship between the pastor, Rev. Finley Schaefer, and a writer and self-proclaimed agnostic, Eugene Lion, who participates in some of the church's work.

Scenes were shot in and around the church, in Village streets and apartments, at Fire Island, off the shore of Long Island, and in Detroit. Several major companies have expressed interest in commercial distribution. Also made by the same filmmakers were the award winning Lutheran films "A Time for Burning," "Martin Luther," and "Question 7," which dealt with the Christian-Communist conflict in East Germany.

THERE WAS lots of debate and difference of opinion at the two-day session of the United Presbyterian Synod of Southern California this week in Long Beach, but one motion passed by unanimous voice vote. It welcomed Billy Graham to the Southland for his Anaheim Crusade, and commended him for his work.

CHURCH HUMOR

"Good! Let's run it up the steeple and see if it rings a bell . . . attendancewise, that is."

PASTOR NOW DISTRICT HEAD

Rev. Arnold G. Kuntz, pastor for 10 years at Bethany Lutheran Church of Lakewood, has been elected president of the Southern California District of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, which comprises more than 250 congregations. In his decade in Lakewood, Rev. Kuntz guided a $250,000 building program, and enlarged membership, while assuming some district leadership duties. His congregation bid farewell to him in a large meeting at John Stimmis Park. Co-pastor Rev. Kenneth Rutledge has assumed interim duties at the 1,200-member church.

Cornerstone of Church to Be Preserved

When Orange County razes the old Spurgeon Memorial Methodist Church at Eighth Street and Broadway, the congregation will get its cornerstone, to preserve as a historical memento at its new site.

The congregation agreed Thursday to pay the estimated cost of $400 to remove the cornerstone and a capsule of data detailing life at the turn of the century when the structure was built.

Since the county bought the church building almost 15 years ago, it has been used for Superior Courts. Currently, it houses the county's personnel offices. It will be razed for realignment and widening of Eighth Street.

Growing Child Evangelism Program Sets Fall Kickoff

Fall activities of the local chapter of Child Evangelism Fellowship begin with a kickoff luncheon Friday at 11:30 in First Baptist Church of Lakewood, according to Mrs. Minnie McPhail, director.

BISHOP KENNEDY PREACHES

Bishop Gerald Kennedy, leader of the Southland's Methodists, will make one of his infrequent preaching visits to Long Beach Sunday, speaking from the pulpit of California Heights United Methodist Church, 3759 Orange Ave., at the 10:30 a.m. services.

The youngest man ever to be elected a Methodist bishop, when he was 40, Kennedy now a vigorous 62, is regarded as one of the country's great preachers.

Among the many tributes paid to him by those of other faiths: Kenneth Hendrick of Christian Science Monitor: "He is actively on the side of right doing, even when it involves — as it usually does — great cost. He speaks for his convictions and works for them. But when he takes a stand, he does so lovingly. If he thinks the other side is wrong, he thinks the people who espouse the other side are, by reason of being people, somehow right."

church, beginning Friday Oct. 10, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Free nursery care will be provided.

Last year Long Beach CEF teachers, representing eight denominations and more than 20 different local churches, taught 57 clubs in the greater Long Beach area.

First class of the season, with others to follow shortly, convened Thursday at the C. Goodall home at 2121 East Sixth St. with 112 present. This was a record turnout for the class held at this same location by the hostess, Helen Goodall, for more than a quarter of a century.

Regular weekly training classes for CEF teachers, as well as for Sunday school teachers, will be held also at the Lakewood

I, P-T HOSTS SOUTHLAND EXECUTIVES

Art Stephan, left, Independent, Press-Telegram national sales manager, briefs this smiling group of Southern California advertising and marketing executives as they prepare to depart on a tour Friday of the Metropolitan Long Beach market. This is the 44th in a series of "Marketers" sponsored by the I, P-T, and the Orange County Evening News.

Trial of six outlaw motorcycle club members on charges they sexually assaulted two 15-year-old Anaheim girls was continued Friday until Nov. 14.

The defendants, all represented by different attorneys, appeared before Judge Rafael H. Galceran in Southeast Superior Court, Norwalk, where charges against a juvenile member of the Hessians motorcycle club were consolidated with those against five adult members.

The cyclists are accused of subjecting the two girls to a night of terror at a Hawaiian Gardens apartment July 8, until one of the victims slipped out of the building and was met by a patrolling sheriff's deputy who summoned other officers to raid the residence.

TV, Console Taken

Burglars forced a front window at the home of Evelyn Sline, 1451 W. Summit St., and removed a television set and console valued at $495, police said Friday.

Law Officer Study Grants

State and local law-enforcement personnel, or graduate students who plan to enter law enforcement work are eligible for grants up to $1,800 for each academic year at California State College at Fullerton.

Frank Vasquez Jr., financial aids assistant at Cal State, said that loans are available to students who plan to enter the law enforcement field after graduation, and that grants will be available to officers seeking to earn college credits.

Hinshaw Faces Peak Tax Gripe

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

A record 1,056 protests against assessed valuations in Orange County were filed this year, Assessor Andrew J. Hinshaw said Friday in announcing that the first hearings will begin Monday.

He said that the protests involve a total of $172,931,768 in estimated values, and that the property owners are asking reductions of $48,582,663.

The protests will be heard by the county's two Assessment Appeals Boards on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, each day beginning at 8:30 a.m. The boards will sit in the old Court House court-rooms.

SOME OF THE major Orange County taxpayers are among those protesting Hinshaw's valuations—but the vast majority of the protests were filed by householders. Their objections will be reviewed first.

Hinshaw predicted that the appeals board hearings will continue until next spring.

Those involving major taxpayers—and those where untested theories of assessment practices are involved—will be set aside until last because the board of supervisors has not ruled on Hinshaw's renewed appeal for private counsel.

He objected to being represented by County Counsel Adrian Kuyper and his staff of deputies, holding that Kuyper had violated the confidential attorney-client relationship by discussing his policies with the Irvine Co., among those appealing.

Hinshaw insisted that he had "lost confidence" in Kuyper and would need private counsel "on a continuing basis."

THE IRVINE CO. is objecting to assessments on the lands put into agricultural preserves—some of which the assessor refused to honor—and on Upper Newport Bay properties involved in a proposed land exchange with the county.

The assessor torpedoed this land swap by challenging that the land title descriptions were inaccurate and vague, and that one involved property the county already owned. He assessed the holdings.

Values put on major commercial centers, such as Fashion Square in Santa Ana and South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa, also are under protest.

So are several possessory interest holdings, including those of oil companies in leases, and the Angels baseball club lease on the Anaheim stadium.

TEENS BEAT COUNCILMAN

Sharp Behind 8-Ball

When someone says "Everybody in the pool" at the Westside Teen Center, they're advocating 8-ball, not swimming.

A lengthy campaign designed to procure a pool table to augment the center's ping pong facilities was realized this week when the new table—a professional model—was dedicated.

Dave Landry, director of the Westside Neighborhood Center, and Don Meadows, director of the Teen Center, helped get the dedication started by recognizing Mr. and Mrs. Allen Johnson for their leadership roles in raising the money to purchase the table. Johnson, chairman of the Center's advisory board, watched as 7th District Councilman Wayne Sharp joined first Landry, then Meadows, in competition against Howard Floker and Jerry Murphy or Gerald Williams. Sharp also provided free soda pop for the crowd at the pool table dedication.

Sharp and his two partners might have fared better had the pool been of the swimming variety.

"We got beat fair and square," said the councilman after sharp-shooting Jerry Murphy banked the 8-ball into a corner pocket. The councilman forked over $25, the agreed "prize" for the victors.

"I don't mind losing," Sharp said, just a bit ruefully. "Especially in a cause like this."

Ad Response 'Jet Propelled'

"You must have put a rocket under my ad because the results were terrific," reports Dr. J. W. Cornwell, 2809 Montair Ave.

He rented his apartment through I, P-T classified ads and says he could have rented dozens more to the many callers.

I, P-T classified provides the main shopping list for potential renters. Make sure your house or apartment for rent appears on the list. Call the hot line to classified today: JE 2-5859.

Stereo Rig Stolen

Stereo equipment valued at $400 was taken from the home of Jane Wintz, of 22 70th Place, when burglars forced open a bathroom window to gain entry, police said Friday.
